New-York Daily Times.

VOL. IV.....NO. 1128. NEW-YORK, MONDAY, APRIL 30, 1855. PRICE TWO CENTS.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE

By Telegraph to the New-York Daily Times.

[illegible]—The "Union" on Cuban Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 29.

The Union this morning has a long article of the utmost importance which will [illegible] The Union says: "It is under that the President regards the recent outrages to and examination of American vessels as violations of international law, indignities to our flag, and encroachments upon our rights, which will not be tolerated. Consequently McCalmont is not to argue with Spanish officials as to the right of search or visitation, but say to them, 'You can claim no right of search, visitation, or examination of any vessels rightfully bearing our flag, upon the high seas, under any pretext or pretext. If any prisoner of yours enters my vessel, I, the act will be done at your peril." The Union further says, "The Spanish Government have the issue of peace or war in their own hands. If they persist in their aggressions, war is inevitable."

The Board of City Councils have offered to the Court of Union the grandest use of their rooms in the City Hall.

Military honors will commence at the Capitol grounds on Wednesday next.

Mr. Dougherty, formerly Superintendent of the Washington Monument, has been appointed Superintendent over the marble work extension to the General Post Office.

The subscription of the Public Debt of the Treasury Department last week amounted to $80,400.

The Southern Railroad Convention will meet on Monday, at the National Hotel. The delegates are now coming.

Letter from Havana and Key West—Arrival of the Packet—Commodore McCauley's Reception—Reported Settlement of Our Difficulties.

CHARLESTON, Saturday, April 28.

The steamship Isabel, with Havana and Key West dates to the 18th inst., has arrived in this port.

The complaint of the Courier caps, as a great review on the 6th Commodore McCauley occupied a seat in Captain's carriage.

There was a report in circulation on the 20th that Commodore McCauley had effected a settlement with Captain, and that the guards had all been withdrawn from the city Theater Church. The Courier's correspondent doubts the truth of the report, believing that Captain has no authority to treat.

Commodore McCauley had been invited to attend a grand banquet which was about to be given by General Concha.

Three Creole gentlemen were in prison, charged with insulting four Spanish officers of rank.

It was reported that several of the Civil Guards were assassinated in the woods on the 20th.

French and Cabalera embarked for Spain on the 23d.

Molasses and sugars were advancing, and freights were active.

The brig John Alfred sailed from Key West for New-York on the 15th, direct.

The brig Horatio was picked up on the 23d, off Sand Key, and towed into Key West. She was stripped of almost everything, and bore indications of having been set on fire, and then, it was presumed, abandoned.

A Young Man Shot by His Rival in Love.

NEW-HAVEN, Saturday, April 28.

WILLIAM CLARK, a young grocer merchant, of this city, at 7 o'clock this evening, shot through the head RICHARD WHITE, twenty-four years of age, in White's dwelling, on Hamden-street. White had, some time ago, courted a Miss BRADBURY, to whom CLARK had been very much attached, and the murder originated, it is said, from that circumstance. All the parties are of good character and standing. The distress of White's wife and her mother have created the greatest sympathy. The murderer has been arrested. White still retains, but his death is looked for at any moment.

The Burning of the Bridge at Painesville, Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Saturday, April 28.

No delay will occur in conveying passengers and baggage between Cleveland and Erie in consequence of the burning of the bridge over the river at Painesville. The time lost will be made up on other parts of the road. Freight will be delayed but a few hours. Ample means are provided by the Company for conveying passengers, baggage and freight across the portage, half a mile, free of cost and with no unnecessary delay.

The Hiss Investigating Committee.

BOSTON, Saturday, April 28.

The Hiss Investigating Committee has adjourned until Tuesday next. It is rumored that the wife Mrs. PATTERSON will then be produced as a witness.

In the Senate, to-day, a bill to establish a Board of Railroad Commissioners passed to a third reading.

Snow in Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, Saturday, April 28.

It commenced snowing here about 3 o'clock this afternoon, and still continues. The snow melts almost as fast as it falls.

Fire at Bridgeton, N. J.

PHILADELPHIA, Saturday, April 28.

BARKER's Iron Foundry, at Bridgeton, N. J., was destroyed by fire last night.

Canal Navigation.

GENEVA, Saturday, April 28.

Water will be let into the Oswego Canal on Tuesday next, and it will be opened for navigation on Wednesday.

Water will commence to be let into the Erie Canal on Monday morning.

Weather at Boston.

BOSTON, Sunday, April 29—9 P. M.

We had a slight fall of snow here this forenoon. The weather is now thick and cloudy with a cold easterly wind.

Arrival of the Alabama in Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Saturday, April 28.

The steamship Alabama, from New-York, arrived here at 8 o'clock this morning with all on board well.

The Southern Mail.

BALTIMORE, Saturday, April 28.

The Southern Mail from all points, as late as due, is received.

Philadelphia Stock Market.

PHILADELPHIA, Sunday, April 29.

The rates for Money are without alteration. Stocks are steady: Reading 42¼; Morris Canal 14; Long Island Railroad 12½; Pennsylvania Railroad 43; Pennsylvania State Fives 97.

TENNESSEE.

Politics and Political Movements in Tennessee.

Correspondence of the New-York Daily Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Saturday, April 14, 1855.

The candidates for Governor of Tennessee are already announced for the contest in August next, and as they are both men of political reserve—both practical money makers, and both men of political experience—the fight will be desperate, spirited and exciting. They will pursue the old custom of stumping the State, and the ball opens at Murfreesboro' on the 1st proximo. Gov. Johnson will be compelled to take the defensive, and endeavor to uphold the present Administration—but in this he will enter in a contest with his opponent, Col. Harvey. Johnson will, it is believed, take the weaker side of the Temperance question, and if so, he will suffer severely on that head. It is understood that Harvey will take bold and decisive grounds on the question—(though I have my own doubts on the subject.) Gov. Johnson will be flanked so much Know-Nothing, that Harvey will scarcely be found on the popular side of that question. The footprints of the nightmare Sam are not "few and far between" in this State, and it is quite evident that Sam's friends hold the "balance of power." As an indication of what is probably going on in this line, I may mention that at one of the best Furnaces on the Cumberland River, where one hundred forges are at work, three-fifths of whom have been Democrats and unshaked Whigs,) all but three have their hats off, hallooing "Hurrah for Harvey!" So I am informed, on good authority, and my informant says that SAM is undoubtedly "in them diggings."

Col. Harvey is more than a match for Johnson in popular oratory—in fact, he is well known to be one of the finest speakers in the Union. And that he will be elected I feel just as confident as that Buchanan will be the next President of Virginia. That is a "dead fact."

As to my delegation in Congress, it is too early in the [illegible]

New-York Daily Times.

VOL. IV.....NO. 1128. NEW-YORK, MONDAY, APRIL 30, 1855. PRICE TWO CENTS.

[illegible] to take any concern upon. The Whigs will not lose anything, at all events, as the chances are for the gain of at least one member. The Legislature will probably be composed of some Whigs, a few Democrats, a few Prohibitory liquor law men, and a "sprinkling" of K. N's. No nominations have been made in this county, and none will probably be made, as the K. N's. have everything their own way. The same is true in other counties.

The next session of the General Assembly will, it is conceded, pass some law more stringent than those now in force, in relation to selling spirits. The temperance movement has been for nine years growing in strength and importance, and most of the intelligent men of all parties have come to the conclusion that, as a matter of protection from a dangerous vice, it is absolutely necessary to enforce measures to check the indiscriminate sale of alcoholic liquors.

Hon. JOHN BELL has not yet reached home, having stopped in Kentucky for a few weeks, on account of private business.

Hon. GEORGE W. JONES arrived here a few days after his return from Washington. He is in bad health, and on his delivery a collection, a number of Democrats want the place. A Convention will be held to settle the case among the Democrats in his District.

LENOX.

LETTER FROM ARCHBISHOP HUGHES.

Mr. William R. Le Couteulx Attempting to be "Mother Superior."

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

Mr. WILLIAM R. LE COUTEULX, GEORGE FISHER, MICHAEL HOBBS, GEORGE LOTHBACK, by name, and accomplices others without name, were the authors of the falsehood printed on the Legislature of New-York in their petition in behalf of St. Louis Church, Buffalo. The Anti-Catholic Church Property bill brought in by Mr. PUTNAM, was founded in great part on the falsehoods thus circulated. One of these was, that "Bishop HUGHES attempted to compel the Trustees of St. Louis Church to convey the title of their Church property to him." The falsehood of this statement has already been printed and by me, and repeatedly admitted by Mr. WILLIAM R. LE COUTEULX, who, in his letter published in the NEW-YORK DAILY TIMES of the 7th inst., admits that I never demanded the title to their Church property, but that after reading my pastoral letter published in 1848, he and his colleagues were stupid enough to come to the conclusion (for, if they acquiesced in the requirements of the pastoral letter, "the whole would have passed under my absolute control and direction." I have already stated that this correspondence and not commonly clever, and as a proof which Mr. LE COUTEULX and his colleagues may be capable of understanding, the Trustees of St. Nicholas Church in Second-street, in this City, did acquiesce in the requirements of the pastoral, and yet continued to be legally the owners and administrators of their Church property just the same as before. Mr. LE COUTEULX in a letter of his, dated Buffalo, April 21, attempts to go over this ground again. That is quite unnecessary. He forgets, indeed, the politeness of a French gentleman, and, in showing his consciousness of the fact, he says:

"These remarks, rather severe, have been forced out of me."

The good gentleman says so perhaps only on this score. He has forbidden the attribution which would have left him the power to be "severe" towards any one, but especially towards me.

As there is still some misapprehension with regard to the history of the unfortunate St. Louis Church in Buffalo, I shall take advantage of this occasion to supply the information I possess on the subject. First of all, Mr. LE COUTEULX, Senior, gave a deed to Bishop DUBOIS for a certain piece of ground to be used for the purposes of Catholic worship. Next, Mr. WM. R. LE COUTEULX and some others, by a surreptitious movement, even while Bishop DUBOIS was still living, contrived to become a corporate body to take charge of his father's donation to the Bishop. Thirdly, since the Church has been completed Mr. WM. R. LE COUTEULX has not left anything undone to defeat the intentions of his venerable father, and drive away Catholic worship from the ground which his parent had given to the late Bishop of New-York for religious purposes. Fourth, it is not certain that Mr. WM. R. LE COUTEULX wishes to deprive the Catholic congregation of St. Louis of this property by bringing about its escape into the residuary estate of his father, from which even something might be added to his own private fortune; and yet it is difficult to account for the obstinate and unfriendly course which Mr. WM. R. LE COUTEULX has adopted in regard to it on any other hypothesis. His generous and pious father made a donation to the city of Buffalo of ground for an Orphan Asylum. Mr. WM. R. LE COUTEULX must be cognizant of the fact that when the Asylum was built, and Catholic children, among others, admitted, the Protestant bigotry of the managers would not admit the Ministry of a Catholic priest towards the poor children of that religion which his father professed, and of which he was an ornament, just as much as his son WM. R. is the reverse. Here, then, is the result of his father's benevolence. He contrives that the Catholic priest shall be alienated from the ground given by his father for Catholic purposes; and the managers of the Orphan Asylum contrive to have the same priest repelled from entrance on the ground given for an Orphan Asylum.

I do not think Mr. LE COUTEULX for admitting the falsehood already printed on in the petition of which he was one of the signers. He could not have done otherwise. And if he thinks that he is honoring his father's memory by defeating his father's pious intention, let him continue in his unfortunate anti-Catholic course.

As there has been some mistake in regard to the name of LE COUTEULX, I think it proper to state that no son or daughter of Mr. WM. R. LE COUTEULX is now in this country. At all events, Mr. LE COUTEULX of this City is the son of the truly Catholic and amiable Mr. LE COUTEULX who at present resides in Paris, and who so well sustains the honor of the hereditary name. He is only nephew to Mr. WM. R. LE COUTEULX, leader of the Trustees of St. Louis Church, Buffalo.

JOHN, Archbishop of New-York.

NEW-YORK, April 28, 1855.

West Point Graduates.

There will be found in another column an advertisement which, with commendable zeal, graduates of the Military Academy to inform Capt. CULLUM, the compiler of the "Register of Officers and Graduates," of their residence and any statistics of their public life.

This Register is a valuable publication. There is scarcely a new made country this side of the Rocky Mountains which has not its representative among the Alumni of the Academy, and there a thousand freedom are interested in these little biographies scattered pell-mell together, linking soldiers in the strong bonds of a common history, and joining these united bonds to our country's honor. Even the cursory reader must be touched on passing down its pages, he marks, by the distinction in the type, those who died on hostile shores—those who were killed in battle, those who yet remain to uphold the country's honor, when it shall call for support, and those who are adorning, in civil life, the various departments of science, art, literature and business.

As a record of the valor of our wars, and as a premium for the future, the Register is also of historic value and importance.

We sincerely hope that the Graduates will come forward at once, at the call of the compiler, and by lightening his labor, hasten the publication of the new edition. The first was published in 1850, and it is the design of the compiler to insert them, as new graduating classes shall render it necessary.

Fire in Broadway.

A fire took place at a quarter past 5 A. M. yesterday in the basement of Mr. BURNHAM's Fancy Store, No. 341 Broadway, near Reade-street. No person being in the building at the time the first indication had of the fire was the discovery by a passer-by of smoke issuing from the cellar door. The alarm was immediately given; the firemen and police were soon on the spot, and succeeded in confining the fire to the apartment in which it originated. The store above, however, was flooded with water, and the damage to the stock by that means exceeds to about $200. The loss is covered by insurance in the Mercantile and Peter Cooper Companies.

This is the third time within less than a year that this building has been on fire, original, we are informed, from the ill-chosen location of a furnace in the basement. Will the Fire Wardens take a look that way?

NEW-YORK CITY.

THE NICARAGUA EXPEDITION.

Colonel Kinney's Arrest—Two Thousand Dollars Bail Given—A Letter from Colonel Kinney.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—Assn. M.

Before Judge Hall.

At the opening of Court this morning, Mr. McKeon, the United States District Attorney, said that in the case of Col. Kinney, the defendant had been brought into Court by the United States Marshal, and he now moved that he be committed, but supposed that an opportunity would be made that he be admitted to bail.

Mr. Fancher, who appeared for the defendant, said that he did make that application.

Mr. McKeon—The defendant has been indicted for a violation of the Neutrality Act of 1818, in setting on foot a military expedition against a power with which we are at peace. I think, that in a case of such magnitude, the bail should be fixed at no small amount, which will be sufficient to secure the attendance of the defendant for trial, and I suggest that it be fixed at $10,000.

Mr. Fancher—We are prepared to give the bail required by the District Attorney. The defendant wishes to have it make it, that the trial may take place as soon as possible, that Col. Kinney may get out of the shadow of the cloud now hanging over him.

The Court—As the present term of the Court closes on Saturday, the trial will of course have to go over until next term.

Mr. McKeon—I will try the defendant as early as possible. There shall be no unnecessary delay on the part of the Government.

The Court—No order can be made for reference at the trial until the next term.

Mr. Fancher—We shall probably make some arrangement in reference to it with the District Attorney.

The Court—The order may be entered that the defendant be bailed in bail in the sum of $10,000, the bond to be executed by two sureties, who are to justify in $20,000 each.

The defendant had offered a bond executed by Hamden S. Hoyt, of Dunkirk, in Chautauqua County, and Dean S. Hoyt, of Lyndsdale, in Lewis County. But the objection was taken by the District Attorney, that the sureties resided out of the District, and other sureties were ordered to be given, residing within this District.

MOTION TO QUASH INDICTMENT.

A motion was argued this morning to quash the indictment found against Franklin W. Adams, for passing a fraudulent invoice through the Custom House. Mr. Cutting argued for the defendant and contended that the indictment was faulty, in following the words of the statute, without setting out the invoice which was alleged to be forged. Mr. Joachimsen argued in favor of the indictment.

$10,000 BAIL GIVEN.

The Court made an order that the defendant be bailed in the sum of $10,000, two sureties justifying in $20,000 each.

The parties were then directed to produce the bail before a Commissioner, and for that purpose they left the Court and went before Mr. Commissioner Morton.

One of the gentlemen who offered himself as bail, was Mr. WARREN LELAND, of the Metropolitan Hotel, who, on being interrogated by the United States District Attorney, testified that he owned a farm in Westchester County worth $60,000.

Capt. J. GRAHAM, who resides at the St. Denis Hotel, was offered as the second security, and testified that he owned property on Madison-avenue and on Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth-streets, amounting in the aggregate to over $20,000, unencumbered. He also owns the following steamers: the United States, the Queen City, and other vessels.

Commissioner MORTON being satisfied with the sufficiency of the bail, and the District Attorney consenting, Col. KINNEY was discharged.

LETTER FROM COL. KINNEY.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

In consequence of the legal proceedings which have been instituted against me in the United States District Court, an unfounded impression may be produced in the public mind that the enterprise in which I am engaged may be frustrated or materially retarded.

It would not certainly be becoming under ordinary circumstances, for a man under indictment to anticipate the evidence of the tribunal before which he is arraigned. But in view of the injury which such an impression may bring upon the interests of those persons with whom I am associated, as well as upon my own, and in view of what I know to be the true character of the enterprise, I think myself justified in taking to express, though your estimate, my confidence and advised assurance that the departure of the expedition under my charge can be delayed at the most but a few days.

I have not, in any sense, contemplated a violation of the neutrality laws. No preparation of a military nature has been made by me, or my associates, and I have in all respects strictly complied with what may be termed the instructions contained in a letter to me from Mr. Secretary MARCY, which has already been laid before the public.

Whatever parties may have instituted these proceedings, they cannot prevent the speedy establishment of a thrifty and law-abiding community on the rich soil of Nicaragua. They may subject me to some temporary inconvenience, but aside from this, I am gratified that an opportunity will then be afforded of vindicating, before a Court and before a Jury of my fellow-countrymen, both the character of the present expedition and the general right of American citizens, in peace, and for peaceful purposes, to leave American soil.

Very respectfully, H. L. KINNEY.

NEW-YORK, April 28, 1855.

LIQUOR.

Sunday Temperance Harangues along the Docks—The Ex-Woodsawyer.

The ex-woodsawyer, we believe, is generally acknowledged to be one of the peculiar institutions of the great commercial emporium. His niche is undoubted. Everybody has seen and heard him, and to his unfounded monsters, facetiousness of spirit and remarkable fecundity of anecdote, yields the tribute of a character well passing, at least, even if he is affected, as some think, with a touch of the cacoethes loquendi. Chanting yesterday morning shortly after 10 o'clock over Catharine Ferry, as we were nothing our return from the ferry-gate, we heard that well-known resonorous voice, and stopped aside to hear it.

The ubiquitous orator we found hooked up to a large wood-pile, and around him were gathered nearly a hundred tinkers, forming in their attitudes and surrounding concomitants, a motley group, which HOGARTH would have deemed worthy of immortal canvas. With these crutches leaned upon in his usual way, and those "spectacles on nose," the ex-woodsawyer and par nobile orator, as we neared the party, was saying that one of the most startling effects of rum was its probability to increase the capacity of the chest. He knew a man who commenced not quite as quick as one would say Jack Robinson, but in an incredible short time, a large plantation—twenty niggers and thirty thousand dollars. He did not, for himself, see any difference between the drinking gentleman and the drunken loafer. One drinks Madeira wine in a palatial residence on Fifth-avenue; the other whisky in a low grogery down near Pearl-street. What makes the difference?—the tailor, hostelrier and hatter—shift the clothes, and you shift the character from loafer to gentleman, from gentleman to loafer. He, ex-woodsawyer, said, a long experience on the old ship Alexander, he had, in his capacity as the child of the Alexander, served faithfully, too—long in the service one of his shareholders—(the ex-woodsawyer enjoyed the affinity of but one author hitherto—but his upper daylight really startled us, and had he not withdrawn his communication when he did, would doubtless have lost his head—he certainly would have lost his seat.

There was a certain fracture about all the laws enacted for the benefit of the remainder, which was a little curious. Provision is made for the paupers, pauper always follow in the train of the remainder's business. Remainders, he added, were the biggest of all living animals. The high-toned tailor, hatter, hostelrier and remainder, lumped had life. There is one remainder—the remainder would have to quit his business, or the Devil's dominions. Mayor WOOD and all the Police on earth might not be able to stop the traffic within the spheres of their control; but the Devil had supreme power and would not allow his place disgraced; if any remainder should dare peep he would catch pretty [illegible]

Talk of a license to regulate the traffic—he to one of the unregulables, as a crooked stick: in fact of the unregulables. The only way to regulate them is to put them in State Prison; but he would not have them put with common prisoners, lest their touch would contaminate those thus claimed even by the Devil. Speaking of the Devil, abandoning, he abandoned job; but he tried everything but rum—that would have dashed blasphemy the Devil didn't happen to think of rum.

Many years, with the remainder, he said, might be permitted to annually, but the result would be the same. He will use his power and his nature is to do evil. As for the remedy, he would recommend put a fine on a cent of rum—one cent—to every cent of the cost. The actual way to stop the traffic is to stop buying the stuff. If you stop it by up a cow pen then away the calf.

In a certain connection, getting warmer, several threats to the right and left, unfavorably with remainder and distributers, and remainder, he said, was unfortunately opportunistic, the ex-woodsawyer was propelled remarks noisy on hour. The interest of the [illegible]

[illegible] pretty strong was manifested. They listened and laughed, and cheered, and were amused. The peculiarities seemingly did not strike the auditory as being so free and funny. It was the characteristic argument in his pocket, the hit circulation and offer of his wing. Those poorer than himself he asked not to contribute. His biography, though worth more than BARNUM's, he generally sold for ten cents, but would take a shilling. If any chose to give a quarter he would pocket the balance and give them credit for the insult. He got his living, he continued, by talking so he had been talking to them on temperance, but he talked the truth. He didn't understand drunkard well enough to talk otherwise. He knew he talked plain. He did not believe in that class who were afraid to say what they thought for fear they would knock their hatter off their pinnacle. He cared a cent a cent. Every very bad, been tried to kill him, but what most public men were afraid of he had had—drunken men. Rotten eggs had been much but they could not hit him. He was so blind he could not see to dodge them, and those who threw them so drunk they could not throw straight.

Ah here came the indefatigable and wholesome ex-woodsawyer might have been managing a lecture at Park-site dock, the rather consequent of rain she he had just addressed at Catharine Ferry, and still later the self-same had circulated at the foot of Broadway. And so he goes.

The Sunday Sale of Liquors.

The City was comparatively quiet yesterday. The Sunday Liquor Law seems not to be so entirely disbanded as in January. Nearly all the principal drinking places in the Fourth Ward are open. Great Bowery saloons, too, marred of Mayor WOOD almost every incorporated to each one of the thousand citizens in his charge.

When that ordinance was passed much good was expected from it; and for some hours or four Sundays, while it was highly enforced, order and quiet and the respectability of the City were vastly improved. The newspapers teemed with commendations of the Mayor, and almost every man, woman and child spoke of Hyde his praise. After a few Sundays had passed, and the ordinance was still observed, no observance came to be considered as much a matter of course that there was not much remark concerning it in the newspapers, and it was thought that the Mayor, having had so remarkable indication of the popular feeling on the subject, would continue to enforce it, even though not fastened by a newspaper paragraph at every step.

Such, however, has not been the case. The Sunday liquor ordinance has not been rigidly enforced or observed for the last three Sundays at least. Now as the first and positive remedy the same as they were when the ordinance was passed, and enforced by the Mayor; and as its observance proved to be a great benefit to the City, why has the Mayor ceased to enforce it? That he cannot prevent the sale of liquors entirely, is hardly a sufficient reason for non-enforcement of any ordinance which is calculated to, at least, greatly lessen the evil.

The Astor Library.

We stepped in at this sepulchral tomb on Saturday, and were surprised to find some dozen people alive within it. The gentlemanly assistants were very attentive to their wants, which appeared to be communicated for the most part in whispers. None can find fault with the light of the room or its general fitness for dozing over scarce books, or for meditation. Indeed, if a man has committed any great sin and does not repentance it, his friends could not do better than persuade him a spell on him a day in the Astor Mausoleum. With a great book before him—the "compendium" always of all other books on the subject, and (unless we are willing to impute a scandal to the world that has refused to keep it in common use) by inference, the least worthy of them all—an footsteps sounding, mere those of stupend attendant—no voice audible, except at distant intervals a feeble whisper and a polite "No" or "Yes, Sir" from the end of the room, where perhaps the lofty gent that guards admittance to the shrine, he cannot choose but find, the title of business throughout run so low that the attendant continues responsive. There are no tortures here; but the inevitable silence makes it a precious place to do penance in and atone to better criterion. So we look for great good to come to our people from the Astor Library. In the midst of our busy city it is like a Memento Mori thrust into one's hands, as leaps thrust into them advertisements of "coupons for sale" when we walk the street. It is the "complement" of a Great Park—the balancing solitude that square miles of forest upon Manhattan Island could not furnish. For the guidance of visitors we publish the rules of the room:

ASTOR LIBRARY REGULATIONS.

1. The Library is open every day except Sundays and established holidays, from 10 A. M. until half an hour before sunset.

2. Admission free to all persons over 18 years of age.

3. When a book is wanted, its title is to be written on this ticket, with the name of the applicant. The ticket is then to be given to an attendant, who will hand out the book, if in the Library, and put it into the hands of the reader without delay.

4. Readers must return their books before leaving the Library, and take back their tickets; otherwise they cannot be admitted a second time.

5. No one is allowed to enter the alcoves, or remove a book from its place, unless accompanied by an officer of the Library.

6. Readers wishing to consult costly works if any, must make special application for that purpose.

7. In taking notes from books, pencils, not pen and ink, are to be used.

8. Smoking strictly forbidden in any part of the Library.

Owing to the seventh regulation there is not the stain of ink upon one of its books, though our friend, whose next volume of history we wait for so eagerly, says that this was nice requirement, by obliging him to copy extensive hors in pencil, and then at home in ink—all that he finds serviceable in the Astor Library has cost him a month of time, but—it keeps the books clean.

N. B.—Readers are not required to go with their hats off—which was a great surprise.

Again, it was a pleasure to see that ladies are not admitted. On our visit we found one—probably a literary lady, though she dogs her bonnet on—at a year, though she was not at the moment in a fine plumery. Ladies, since they are not forbidden, ought to make use of their rights by often using the Library. Every new case is a precedent, making it more difficult to enact a rule of exclusion. Go lately, ash the Librarian the very rare old book that you never saw, and then, every it. Remember, of course, that dozing in inconvenience, and ladies will be sure to improve by visiting it.

The Tenants Against Schools.

The weekly meetings on Saturday, at the Hall of the Board of Education, of the Female Teachers of the different Ward Schools, are always interesting. Nearly seven hundred young ladies comprise the Female Normal School. The advantages for tuition they enjoy, with the ranges of studies pursued, are well known. It is most gratifying to to much remark that the undertaking has been attended with the greatest success. An overwhelming feature that has contributed materially to effect this end is, no doubt not, the almost universal presence of numerous friends and parents of educational interests to witness the exercises. Saturday, VICTOR M. RICE, Esq., Superintendent of Public Education of New-York, accompanied by WM. E. NELSON, Esq., President of the Board of Education, and Mr. BARNARD, City Superintendent, visited the school. Subsequent to the usual music exercises, comprising singing and piano execution, which by the way were excellently well done, Mr. RICE, in a very few and pertinent remarks, addressed the young ladies of the school. He complimented them on their proficiency in their studies and manifest zeal and determination to fit themselves to fill their position as teachers, in a manner worthy the high profession they had chosen. He was pleased to observe it. He was constantly pleased that the privileges of such a school were constantly enriched, and with such an efficient corps of instructors, was there. The universality with which the lady teachers availed themselves of the opportunities thus afforded for intellectual advancement indicated most clearly their appreciation of its benefits. The utility of such an institution could not therefore be doubted. The effect was already being shown in the increased improvement in the opportunities under their charge. He only wished their zeal would continue unabated. The labors of the teachers—the true teachers—are unnoticed or unknown; but it was a noble profession—it was truly choice to fill it nobly. Mr. RICE closed with allusion to the marked liberality of New-York in providing for general education.

After the close of Mr. R.'s remarks the young ladies resumed their music, and continued voluntary practice for several hours of numerous set pieces, duets, trios, [illegible] etc., preliminary to the annual exhibition which is to take place in June.

STRANGE APPEAL.

Grand Enclosure in Rear Broadway—A Very Respectable Family Very Much Frightened—Terrible Consequences of Not Going Home Till Morning.

Nothing but a sure prospect of beneficial results to the public could induce us to insert a line in the New-York DAILY TIMES touching in the remotest degree persons or strictly family affairs. And even with such in present clearly in view, the duty is not the agreeable one. Nevertheless, I pause regard for the welfare of the community in which we live, and particularly a strong desire for the amusement and instruction of a lady standard of morals in the rising generation, either impel us to the work. There is also another and wholesome, by a faithful unveiling of the mysterious which, hold a young man of highly respectable parentage on a single night, namely: A necessity exhibiting the actual spirits of our young men to a point where the Prohibitory Law may be permitted to become in a social sense quite beneficial.

In the future to some of those who have resided many years in New-York, the there are many young men whose habit is to stay out late of nights. Thus the habit is a bad one there can be no doubt, and when it is accompanied by the frequent indulgence of intoxicating drinks, the case is much worse. The consequences of the indulgence of this habit, with the usual concomitants, are then related by one of our reliable and intelligent corps of reporters.

WILLIAM—familiarly known as BILL—ROBINSON is one of the most honest, clever and apparently sober of all the young men who inhabit East Broadway. But BILL has a failing, and that failing is an extraordinary development of the social organs. Under control of his predominant organs he had been spending the late hours of Friday night and one or more of the early hours of Saturday morning at Samwood's, with a party of good-natured, appreciative souls; and was, perhaps, even for him, unusually jolly when he emerged from the saloon into Broadway, and crossing the Park proceeded homeward. Nothing worthy of notice in the connection occurred on the way, in which he was personally interested, until he had arrived at within four or five blocks of his home, which we have already said was in East Broadway. Until arriving at this point he had divided his time pretty equally between strenuous efforts to avoid the Virginia fence movement and reminiscences on the inefficiency of a vast majority of weary human efforts. But here, having surmounted a certain stone without stumbling, he imagined he had triumphed, and in the exuberance of his joy, without giving the slightest warning to the slumbering neighborhood, roared out:

"Hie, Nelly! Hie, Nelly!
Listen unto me," &c.

Could immortal mortal have been more unfortunate in the time and place and, in fact, in all the circumstances of his revelation? Let the reader judge.

On the corner of ——street and East Broadway—the name of justice does not require us to be more particular as to the house—there lived and still lives a very respectable family, composed of a father and mother and three daughters. One of the latter had for some time previous been visited by a worthless scamp, in gaudy apparel, to the sorrow of her father and indignation of her mother. And what rendered matters yet more unfortunate for poor BILL, the girl was suspected of having encouraged the attentions of the aforementioned scamp in gaudy apparel. Indeed, to such lengths had matters gone that the doting parents harbored serious apprehensions of an elopement. Add to this the fact that the name of the offending Miss was ELLEN, and that by those familiar with the family she was called NELLY, and a portion of what followed BILL ROBINSON's innocent invocation of a purely imaginary NELLY, will not seem strange.

The sound of his voice had not escaped into Grand-street before a second story window was raised in anger, and two pairs of flashing eyes accompanied by two heads, each surrounded by a white cotton night-cap, appeared to the affrighted and somewhat obfuscated views of astonished BILL ROBINSON.

"You gracious villain!" exclaimed the father of NELLY, (for her father he was.)

"I—I—I beg ten thousand pardons," said the astonished and now rapidly sobering BILL. "No intention of disturb, 'scuse you; wouldn't do so, 'cond time you."

"Oh you wretched good for nothing creature you," exclaimed a female, whom our readers need not be informed, was Nelly's mother. "How dare you, you vagabond, to come to ruin my daughter Nelly at this time of night! Don't dare to come here again you wretch, for it won't do no good, you villain; we've locked Nelly's room-door, an't she can't get out to run away with you, you rascal and scoundrel you!"

"Pon m' honor," said the wonder-stricken BILL, "don't know—no intention to do anything pon m' honor, sir!" And as he spoke he moved unconsciously in direct by under the open window.

The maternal night-cap disappeared for a moment, but returned again just as BILL was emerging on additional explanation. He was interrupted by, "Don't dare to open your mouth, you wretch." "Oh, if I wasn't a woman I'd make you sweat for your conduct, you good-for-nothing rascal." "There, take that."

The window was closed suddenly.

BILL ROBINSON awoke about noon. And while with his left hand he pressed his aching brow, he held in the other his coat and pantaloons. He gazed at them and still closer pressed his burning brow. He gazed again—gave them one piercing glance. But no. He could not fathom the mystery. At last he concluded he must have been at a large fire, holding the rope. He could not say exactly where the fire had been; but it was the best solution he could get, so he dropped them.

BILL ROBINSON has vowed not to stay out late again as long as he lives.

The Mood of the Bowery Adorned.

Great improvements have been made at the junction of Third and Fourth avenues, by the removal of the whole of that triangular block of shanties for which removed by fire or otherwise so many who are incendiaries by profession have secretly hoped. The tumbrey ruins all carted off, the lank have been levelled, sown in grass, and trees planted around. We presume from appearance that it is to be left a Park—which will be a great help to the appearance of this quarter. This leaves from the Bowery an unobstructed view of the imposing structure which PETER COOPER is rearing as an Industrial Institute, and which has grown a story since Fall. The Bible House still shows itself on either flank of the Cooper Institute, though when this building is completed it will no longer present the same fine view to travelers up the Bowery. The old shanties opposite the Institute on Fourth-avenue, from the old Vauxhall Gardens to the corner, are giving place to large and handsome stores. One other improvement is greatly needed in the vicinity. That name, "Tompkins Market," which "smells to Heaven," and a block or two internally besides—a tumble-down, pewter-pail concern, that only stands up by virtue of the well composed filth and cases of spider-webs that still make the exterior look hoky—ought to be levelled, and the place purged by a deluge of Croton. Then—if a market is to remain—let it be one as fine as the Bowery or even like the new East Catharine Market-house, or like any other respectable market that a lady can enter without raising her dress. This done, we shall be able to point to as fine a cluster of public buildings within a gun-shot in each direction of the head of the Bowery, as can be shown in any similar number of acres save the City Hall. There is the Bible House, containing the Society Library, the Cooper Institute, the Astor Library, the Mercantile Library, and the greatest Christian Church in Christendom; and close by on the other hand, the Bowery, and we fine time-proof, Library of the Historical Society, and present Chamber beside that we mentioned elsewhere to the City.

Heavy Robbery of Silks.

The store of Mr. A. H. SOUMAIN, at No. 202 Bowery, was burglariously entered a few nights ago and robbed of silks and fancy goods amounting to the value of $1,000. Two men were seen to enter the store without a "cover" making his appearance. Mr. SOUMAIN has offered a reward of $500 for the recovery of his lost property.

ENGLAND.

[illegible]

Special Correspondence of the N. Y. Daily Times.

LONDON, Friday night, April 27, 1855.

"Adieu" of correspondence with you, I bring you as all other, the conversation. The Indian and Irish [illegible] the overshadowing of Parliament. The Imperial visit is the great topic of the day.

I send you one of the addresses current for Napoleon. When the news of coming from the lower, [illegible] being on Sunday, suggested of dearly the truth. It has, however, been already discussed in and quotation by the Times, a column quite learned [illegible] Times to the success of Paris. Without further apologizing your authority, I will put in print, that, full of [illegible] to a letter by Victor Hugo to Louis Bonaparte. I have been favored with a copy, and have [illegible] it for your readers. You will see that the end of the correspondence [illegible] to insert a line in the New-York DAILY TIMES touching in the remotest degree persons or strictly family affairs. And even with such in present clearly in view, the duty is not the agreeable one. Nevertheless, I pause regard for the welfare of the community in which we live, and particularly a strong desire for the amusement and instruction of a lady standard of morals in the rising generation, either impel us to the work. There is also another and wholesome, by a faithful unveiling of the mysterious which, hold a young man of highly respectable parentage on a single night, namely: A necessity exhibiting the actual spirits of our young men to a point where the Prohibitory Law may be permitted to become in a social sense quite beneficial.

In the future to some of those who have resided many years in New-York, the there are many young men whose habit is to stay out late of nights. Thus the habit is a bad one there can be no doubt, and when it is accompanied by the frequent indulgence of intoxicating drinks, the case is much worse. The consequences of the indulgence of this habit, with the usual concomitants, are then related by one of our reliable and intelligent corps of reporters.

WILLIAM—familiarly known as BILL—ROBINSON is one of the most honest, clever and apparently sober of all the young men who inhabit East Broadway. But BILL has a failing, and that failing is an extraordinary development of the social organs. Under control of his predominant organs he had been spending the late hours of Friday night and one or more of the early hours of Saturday morning at Samwood's, with a party of good-natured, appreciative souls; and was, perhaps, even for him, unusually jolly when he emerged from the saloon into Broadway, and crossing the Park proceeded homeward. Nothing worthy of notice in the connection occurred on the way, in which he was personally interested, until he had arrived at within four or five blocks of his home, which we have already said was in East Broadway. Until arriving at this point he had divided his time pretty equally between strenuous efforts to avoid the Virginia fence movement and reminiscences on the inefficiency of a vast majority of weary human efforts. But here, having surmounted a certain stone without stumbling, he imagined he had triumphed, and in the exuberance of his joy, without giving the slightest warning to the slumbering neighborhood, roared out:

"Hie, Nelly! Hie, Nelly!
Listen unto me," &c.

Could immortal mortal have been more unfortunate in the time and place and, in fact, in all the circumstances of his revelation? Let the reader judge.

On the corner of ——street and East Broadway—the name of justice does not require us to be more particular as to the house—there lived and still lives a very respectable family, composed of a father and mother and three daughters. One of the latter had for some time previous been visited by a worthless scamp, in gaudy apparel, to the sorrow of her father and indignation of her mother. And what rendered matters yet more unfortunate for poor BILL, the girl was suspected of having encouraged the attentions of the aforementioned scamp in gaudy apparel. Indeed, to such lengths

Sir, what is presence of the formidable citizen of the Bastard. VICTOR HUGO.

April 6, 1855.

A Novel and Interesting Scene—An Address on Gunpowder.

From the Correspondence of the London Times.

BEYROUT SEBASTOPOL, Monday, March 26, 1855.

Early on Saturday morning a flag of truce was sent in by the Allies, with a proposition to the Russians for an armistice to bury the dead, which were lying in numbers close on all Russians to every Frenchman and Englishman—in front of the Round Tower and Mamelon, and, after some delay, an answer in the affirmative was returned, and it was arranged that two hours should be granted for collecting and carrying away the dead on both sides. The news spread through the camps, and the rows, which the Chasseurs d'Afrique had put up in excellent style, were much shorn of their attractions by the opportunity afforded to us of meeting our enemies on neutral ground. All the ravines leading to the front trenches were crowded with officers hastening on horse and foot down to the scene of so much hard fighting. The crests of the hills and the slopes in front of the batteries were covered with men, and they dotted the deadly interval between the lines, which had been before occupied alone by thousands of men of shot and fragments of shell discharged by French and English and Russians during this protracted siege. The day was beautifully bright and warm. White flags waved gently in the faint Spring breeze above the embrasures of our batteries, and from the Round Tower and Mamelon. Not a cloud had been visible in front of the lines an instant before the emblems of peace were run up to the flagsticks, and a sudden gun from the Mamelon, and a burst of smoke from Gun-work battery had but a short time previously heralded the armistice. The instant the flags were hoisted, friend and foe swarmed out of the embrasures. The Riflemen of the Allies and of the enemy rose from their lairs in the rifle pits, and scattered toward each other to behold their grim handiwork. The whole of the space between the Russian lines and our own was filled with groups of unarmed soldiery. Passing down by the Middle Picket Ravine, which is now occupied by the French, and which runs down in front of the Light Division camp I came out upon the advanced French trench, within a few hundred yards of the Mamelon. The sight was strange beyond conception. French, English and Russian officers were walking about saluting each other courteously as they passed, and occasionally entering into conversation, and a constant interchange of little civilities—such as offering and receiving cigar-lights—was going on in each little group. Some of the Russian officers were evidently men of high rank and breeding. Their polished manners contrasted remarkably with their plain and rather coarse clothing. They wore, with few exceptions, the invariable long gray coat over their uniforms. The French officers were all in grande tenue, and offered a striking contrast to many of our own officers, who were dressed à la Balaklava, and wore uncouth head-dresses, outskin coats, and nondescript paletots. Many of the Russians looked remarkably like English gentlemen in "style" of face and bearing. One tall, fine-looking old man, with a long gray beard and strangely shaped cap, was pointed out to me as HERMAN of the Cossacks in the Crimea, but it did not appear as if there were many men of very high military rank present. The Russians were rather grave and reserved, but they seemed to fraternize with the French better than with ourselves, and the men certainly got on better with our Allies than with the fire priviteers of our own regiments who were down toward the front. But while all this civility was going on we were walking among the dead, over blood-stained ground, covered with evidences of recent fight. Broken muskets, bayonets, cartouch-boxes, caps, fragments of clothing, straps and belts, pieces of shako, little pools of clotted blood, shot—round and grape—shattered gabions and sandbags, were visible around us on every side, and through the midst of the crowd stalked a solemn procession of soldiers bearing their departed comrades to their long home. I counted 77 litters borne past me in fifteen minutes—each filled with a dead enemy. The contortions of the slain were horrible, and recalled the memories of the fields of Alma and Inkerman. Some few French were lying close in advance toward the Mamelon and Round Tower among the dead belonging to the French advanced trenches, which the Russians had broken down. They had evidently been slain in pursuit of the enemy. The Russians appeared to treat their dead with great respect. The soldiers I saw were white-faced and seemed ill-fed, though many of them had powerful frames, square shoulders, and broad chests. All their dead who fell within and near our lines were stripped of boots and stockings. The cleanliness of their feet, and in most cases, of their coarse linen shirts, was remarkable. Several officers of the "equipages" of the fleet of Sebastopol were killed in the attack. They were generally muscular, gallant fellows, with rough, soldierly faces. The Russians carried off all the dead which lay outside our lines to the town, passing down between the Mamelon and the Round Tower. In the midst of all this silent evidence of war, a certain amount of lively conversation began to spring up, in which the Russian officers indulged in a little badinage. Some of them asked our officers "when we were coming in to take the place," others "when we thought of going away?" Some congratulated us upon the excellent opportunity we had of getting a good look at Sebastopol, as the chance of a nearer view, except on similar occasions, was not, in their opinion, very probable. One officer asked a private confidentially in English how many men we sent into the trenches! "Begorra, only seven thousand a night, and a wake covering party of ten thousand," was the ready reply. The officer laughed and turned away. An aide-de-camp to a Russian with silver stripes stopped by a dead body, and put it into the litter. He looked round for a comrade to help him. A Zouave at once advanced, with much grace, and lifted it, to the infinite amusement of the bystanders; but the joke was not long-lived, as a Russian frequently came up and helped to carry off his dead comrade. In the town we could see large bodies of soldiery in the streets, assembled at the corners and in the public places. Probably they were ordered out to make a show of their strength. The Russians denied that Prince MENSCHIKOFF was dead, but they admitted that Admiral ISTOMIN was killed. He was one of the principal officers engaged in the destruction of the Turkish fleet at Sinope, and the Czar had rewarded him by giving him an order of St. George of higher distinction than that worn by Prince MENSCHIKOFF, and of a class which is generally accorded only to successful Generals who have conducted an army and closed a triumphant campaign. A distinguished looking man, who complained that he was likely to be deprived of his cruise in his yacht this year by the war, was pointed out to me as Prince BARATINSKI. Owing to some misunderstanding or other, a little fusillade began among the riflemen, or the left during the armistice, and disturbed our attention for a moment, but it was soon terminated. Gen. BOSQUET and several officers of rank of the allied army visited the trenches during the armistice, and staff officers were present on both sides to see that the men did not go out of bounds. The armistice was over about 3 o'clock. Scarcely had the white flag disappeared behind the parapet of the Mamelon before a round shot from the sailors' battery went slap through one of the embrasures of the Russian work, and dashed up a great pillar of earth inside. The Russians at once replied, and the noise of cannon was heard through the evening. It was curious to observe the rush through the ravines which had been filled by the enemy at the moment on their way to see us, but they poured their shot and shell right into the path from the Round Tower, the Mamelon, and the ships.

THE CHICAGO RIOTS.

Coroner's Inquest—Grand Jury Empanneled.

The Coroner's Jury has found the following verdict in the case of PETER MERTINS, killed in the late riots: "Died from the effects of a gun-shot wound received from some person unknown to this Jury, acting under direction of the Sheriff in quelling the riot of Saturday last."

As the result of the examination, PATRICK COURTELLE, JOSEPH DALTON, JOSEPH LATHES, JOHN WEBSTER, CHARLES HOWARD, ROBERT MURRAY and CHARLES ALBRY, were discharged from custody for lack of proof against them. THOMAS HALLIGAN was admitted to bail in $2,000, which he found, and others as follows: HARRY KERNER $2,000, JOHN D. KERSTEDT $500, Stephen D. LAKUE (the owner of the day) $5,000, JAMES CORCORAN $2,000.

By a special venire issued out of the Recorder's Court, a Grand Jury has been commanded to examine into the charges against the implicated rioters. Recorder WILSON charged the Jury in an able manner, exhorting them to a careful and patient investigation of the charges against the prisoners, assuring them of his conviction that our German citizens are in favor of the maintenance of law and order, and in nowise, as a class, sympathize with the participants in the late riotous proceedings which had transpired in this city the week before.

The Grand Jury are in session, and bills will be brought in against those parties in the course of the week, the larger share of whom are retained in default of bail, ranging in sums from $1,000 to $5,000.

Some hopes, it is said, are entertained for the life of Officer WEBSTER, whose skull was fractured while in discharge of his duty at those lamentable riots.

☞ Mr. JAMES MAHOOL, an aged, well known and opulent citizen of Frankinville, Baltimore Co., Md., on the 23d, was thrown from his carriage while on route for Baltimore, and died in the evening, never speaking after the injury.

BOSTON SCHOOLS.—The Public Schools of Boston are attended by about 20,000 pupils at an annual expense of $300,000. The private schools report 1,700 pupils, whose instruction cost not less than $60,000. The total population of Boston is 136,881, of which 24,304 are between the ages of five and eighteen, and the average daily attendance is nearly 19,000. The whole number of Public Schools is 216, for which there are 4th teachers. The male teachers receive on an average $1,084 per annum, the female teachers $304.

A FATHER MURDERED BY HIS SON.—The Office, of Friday, a paper published at Paris, Bourbon County, Ky., says: Mr. WILLIAM SMITH, of Georgetown, in this county, was shot and killed, at his residence, on Tuesday last week, by SOLOMON SMITH, his eldest son. The young man fled and has not yet been arrested.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE.—Commencement will take place on the 24th, 25th and 26th of July. The oration before the societies will be by Prof. FARE, Hon. S. P. Chase and WENDELL PHILLIPS, Esq., of Boston. The Class Day is on the 25th. Hale by Dodworth's Band. The number graduating, 41.

GOV. REDDER AND INDIAN LANDS.

Letter from Gov. Redder to Mr. Commissioner Manypenny.

To G. W. Manypenny, Commissioner of Indian Affairs:

SIR: On the 10th of January last, four contracts made with S. W. Jennings, for the sale of four leases of land in this Territory, which had been granted to half-breed Kansas Indians, were submitted to you as the head of the Indian Bureau, for report thereon, with memoranda of the reserves, praying that the contracts might be confirmed and they allowed to make the deeds. These contracts were, for convenience sake, made in the name of Judge JOHNSTON; but it was well understood that Judge ELLMORE, Col. ISAACS and myself were equally interested. The grantees were JOSEPH JAMES, LOUIS PAPIN and wife, FRANCOIS AUBERT and MOSES BERNARD and wife.

In your report to the President of Jan. 15, you recommend that these contracts be not confirmed—you allude to them as "disreputable attempts of certain officers (sanctionarion to speculate in these lands"—you characterize them as "having a demoralizing tendency upon the inhabitants of the Territory, both Indians and white"—you state that "these purchases are the result of a systematic plan to forestall competition in the purchase and monopoly, at low prices, of these reserves"—you stigmatize them as morally "indelicacy and improprietry"—you undertake to quote from and endorse an "entitled to the fullest credit," a letter, in which it is said that the grantees have been "chaised," and, at the close of your report, you say that "they disclose a condition among the Federal officers which, if not rebuked, must soon produce a state of demoralization in the Territory, the effects of which will be as lamentable as the acts themselves are disgraceful."

This report of yours you have given to the public in the shape of a Congressional document, under a resolution of the House of Representatives, calling on your department for information, which resolution I have reason to believe was offered by your friends. Under other circumstances the law and the logic of your report would make a beautiful and amusing theme, but matters of graver import outside the discussion. You have thus raised an issue between yourself on the one hand, and myself and three of the Territorial officers on the other, which must be settled, not in a corner, but in the full blaze of day and before the whole public; and it is no less grave a question than, whether on the one hand we are dishonest, dishonorable men, guilty of revolting fraud, or whether, on the other, you are a vile and unscrupulous slanderer, who does not recognize the binding obligations of truth and justice, or the sacredness of private character. You have publicly and deliberately asserted the one side of that issue, and I now as deliberately and publicly assert the other, and before I am done with you, Sir, I intend to do with my assertion what you have not attempted to do, and cannot do with yours—establish it by competent proof.

A controversy of this kind is to every man of well regulated mind and delicacy of feeling, a most distasteful occupation—to the innocent man who does not regard it with distant indignation, it is an imputation of base cowardice—to the man who gratuitously and baselessly provokes it, it is the ineffaceable brand of injustice, brutality and falsehood. That you have been in this business only the gratuitous tool of other men, who have used you to traduce me, cannot alter the source which my reputation and self-respect require me to pursue. If, for their own purposes, they have duped you into a difficulty from which you cannot be extricated, it is no concern of mine. I am equally bound to defend my reputation against your facetious assault, whether that levocity is the result of stupidity or malice.

As a set-off to your sweeping charges of fraud, I will, before coming to the main object of this letter, state a few facts which, for the present, I rest on my own assertion. First, however, I allege what I suppose no sensible man will deny, that an individual by accepting a public office does not forfeit his right to buy lands and make profit off them if he can, provided the vendor is fully competent to manage his own affairs and make his own bargains, and no fraud, deceit or misrepresentation is practiced upon him. The man who denies this proposition I shall not attempt to convince. He is weak or to believe what he pleases, and I shall undertake no such Quixotic task as to supply his deficiency of common sense.

With this, premise, I assert that these vendors whom you have probably led the public to regard as wild, uncultured savages, are, in fact, as competent to manage their own affairs as you or I. LOUIS PAPIN is a white man—a shrewd and intelligent Frenchman, who speaks the French and English well; is quite at home in all the ordinary transactions of life, and, so far from being an Indian, that he has not the slightest admixture of Indian blood and cannot speak the language. AUBERT is precisely the same, and no more of an Indian than yourself. Their wives are the daughters of LOUIS GONVIE (a French trader) and his Indian wife—quite as intelligent as their parentage and station would indicate, and with them the French is their daily and domestic language. JOSEPH JAMES is the son of a white father and Indian mother, and with his brother, the United States Interpreter, is among the most intelligent of his tribe. He (as well as PAPIN, BERNARD and AUBERT) follows, on a moderate scale, farming and raising stock, buying and selling when necessary, speaks English, Indian, and, I think, some French, and is quite as keen and shrewd in his bargains as Gough; he was a full-blooded white man, instead of a half-breed. His contract with us was made after several days' reflection, and full consultation with his brother, the interpreter. BERNARD is a Frenchman who speaks the French and English—is an intelligent man, fully competent to all the ordinary business of life, and with not the slightest mixture of Indian blood, as any knowledge of the language. His wife, ADELE, is a half-breed, daughter of GERMAIN LAMOTTE, (a French trader,)—skilled in all the manners and habits of a white, is neat and intelligent, and knows well, in probably two more languages than yourself. Indeed, if I were allowed to venture an opinion, I should say that Mr. and Mrs. BERNARD are quite as competent to experiment your bargaining as you or your agent are to experiment theirs. The prices fixed by all of them were those dictated by us, and are four and five-fold the amount which, in your treaty with the Shawnees, you had just before agreed to pay for better lands; and I have yet to learn that code of morality which considers the Indian fairly paid for choice lands at sixty cents an acre, by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and is shocked at the injury inflicted on a white man with half-breed wife, when an individual pays him three dollars.

That these lands could have been sold for a little more, had they been hawked about in the market, affirm made to get purchasers, and the sale delayed till the country filled up, is very probable; but that proves nothing, and is common to all contracts. The prices were more than we had intended to give—more than had ever been offered before, although it was generally known that the vendors were anxious to sell—were fixed by the owners themselves, after consultation with each other and their friends, and were all that any man could afford to give at that time to make it a desirable investment. Three of the vendors, being white men, could have purchased quite as good a land at one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, and instead of consummating these large purchases, I, in so doing, do approach to fraud. Such is your charge, and it is upon this that you will decide the question of my integrity. Condemning them, you will uphold, maintain and defend it; that you will discourage and discountenance any and every attempt coming from any and every quarter, which upon before or by designed or calculated to destroy, or subvert it, or to weaken its binding; and that you will use your influence, as far as in your power, to endeavoring to procure an amicable and peaceful adjustment of all political disconsolate or differences, in the Territory of Kansas or elsewhere. You do further promise and swear (or affirm) that you will not vote for any one to fill any office of honor, or profit, or trust of a political character, whom you know or believe to be in favor of a dissolution of the Union of these States; or who is in sympathy with that result; that you will vote for and support for all political offices THEY, or Union Degree members of this Order, in preference to all others; that it is may be done consistently with the Constitution and laws of the land; you will, when elected or appointed to any official station, which may confer on you the power to do so, remove from office or place, all persons whom you know or believe to be in favor of a dissolution of the Union, or who are endeavoring to produce that result; and that you will in no case appoint such person to any political office or place whatever. All this you do solemnly swear (or affirm) upon your honor as American citizens and friends of the American Union, to sustain and abide by it without any hesitation or mental reservation whatever. I've also promise and swear (or affirm) that this, and all other obligations which you have previously taken in this Order, shall ever be kept sacred and inviolate. To all this you pledge your lives, your fortunes, and your sacred honors. So help you God and keep you steadfast! (Each one shall answer, "I do.")

After the candidates have been instructed in the mysteries of the third degree of the Order, the following charge is given by the President:

BROTHERS: It is with great pleasure that I congratulate you upon your advancement to the Third Degree of our Order. The responsibilities you have now assumed are more serious and weighty than those which preceded, and are intended to be such only as have been tried and found worthy. Our obligations are intended to impress upon us our duty to the land that gave us birth, to the memories of our fathers, and to the happiness and welfare of our children. Considering your country as again upon the threshold of a destiny like that which marked her birth, the Patriots of the Revolution have placed your hands upon the helm of a Union which your trust will guide and direct. Your department among your initiates, has attested your devotion to the principles we desire to inculcate; and has imparted a consciousness to your minds of which we can give no higher proof than your admission here.

The degree which thereon distinctly differs from other, and, in some respects, higher. The Third Degree points out more sacred duties of the Know-Nothing Ritual.

Abridged from the Pittsburg Gazette, April 24.

We give below the genuine Ritual of the First, Second and Third Degrees of the Know-Nothing Order, in new administration in the general Council.

How this Ritual came into our possession it is not necessary to state. It is sufficient to say that the book in which the ritual is contained, was in the possession of one who was entitled to hold them, and that we came honestly by them. The book was of the size of ordinary toy books. The due mastering the First and Second Degrees were evidence of having been much used; the other, devoted to the Third Degree, is nearly new, and has been but little used. The name of the Council in which they have been employed is written in pencil marks on the yellow cover on the latter.

This is the first development of which we have felt sure that it is unquestionably genuine. Read:

RITUAL OF FIRST DEGREE.

FIRST DEGREE COUNCIL.

To be admitted to membership in this Order, the applicant shall be:

1. Proposed and found acceptable.
2. Introduced and examined under the guaranty of secrecy.
3. Placed under the obligation which the Order imposes.
4. Required to enroll his name and place of residence.
5. Instructed in the forms, usages, and ceremonies of the Order.
6. Solemnly charged as to the objects to be attained, and his duties.

The preliminary outside proceedings having been gone through, then comes the

OBLIGATION.

You do solemnly swear (or affirm,) that you will never reveal anything said or done in this room, the names of any persons present, nor the existence of the Society, whether found worthy to proceed or not, and that all your declarations shall be true, so help you God.

The following questions propounded by the Marshal, are to be satisfactorily answered:

Where were you born?
Where is your permanent residence?
Are you twenty-one years of age?
In religious belief are you a Roman Catholic?
Were you born of Protestant parents, or were you reared under Protestant influence?
If married, is your wife a Roman Catholic?

("No," or "Yes,"—the answer to be valued as the Constitution of the State Council shall provide.)

Are you willing to use your influence, and vote only for native-born American citizens for all offices of honor, trust, or profit in the gift of the people, to the exclusion of all foreigners and aliens, Roman Catholics in particular, and without regard to party predilections?

(Answer: "I am.")

The candidates having answered all the questions, are next brought in by the Marshal to the President, who, after some preliminary remarks, addresses them with the following

OBLIGATION.

In the presence of Almighty God and these witnesses, you do solemnly promise and swear that you will never betray any of the secrets of this Society, nor communicate them even to proper candidates, except within a lawful Council of the Order; that you will never permit any of the secrets of this Society to be written, or in any other manner to be made legible, except for the purpose of official instruction; that you will not vote, nor in any way influence for any man, for any office in the gift of the people, unless he be an American born citizen, in favor of Americans ruling America, nor if he be a Roman Catholic; that you will, in all political matters, so far as this Order is concerned, comply with the will of the majority, though it may conflict with your personal preference, so long as it does not conflict with the constitutions of the United States of America, or that of the State in which you reside; that you will not, under any circumstances whatever, knowingly recommend an unworthy person for initiation, nor suffer it to be done if in your power to prevent it; that you will not, under any circumstances, expose the name of any member of this Order, nor reveal the existence of such an Association; that you will answer an imperative notice issued by the proper authority; obey the command of the State Council President, or his Deputy, while assembled by such notice, and respond to the claim of a sign or a cry of the Order, unless it be physically impossible; and that you will acknowledge the State Council of ——— as the legislative head, the ruling authority, and the supreme tribunal of the Order in the State of ——— acting under the jurisdiction of the National Council of the United States of North America. Binding yourself in the penalty of excommunication from the Order, the forfeiture of all intercourse with its members, and being denounced in all the Societies of the same, as a willful traitor to your God and your Country.

(The President shall call up every person present by three blows of the gavel, when the candidates shall all repeat after the Vice President in concert:)

All this I voluntarily and sincerely promise, with a full understanding of the solemn sanctions and penalties.

The candidates are then invested by the Instructor with everything appertaining to the first degree—with the sign, countersign and pass-words—with the "sign of recognition," the "answer," and the "grip" with the means by which public notice of a meeting is given—with the "cry of distress," and "sign of caution;" after which the President impresses upon the initiated the importance of secrecy, the manner of proceeding in recommending candidates for initiation, and the responsibility of the duties which they have assumed.

RITUAL OF THE SECOND DEGREE.

SECOND DEGREE COUNCIL.

The candidates having been elected to the second degree are presented to the President and take the following

OBLIGATION.

You, and each of you, of your own free will and accord, in the presence of Almighty God and these witnesses, your left hand resting upon your right breast and your right hand extended to the flag of your country, do solemnly and sincerely swear; that you will not, under any circumstances, disclose in any manner, nor cause it to be done by others, if in your power to prevent it, the name, sign, pass-words or other secrets of this degree, except in open Council for the purpose of instruction; that you will at all times conform to all the rules and regulations of this Order, and to the Constitution and By-laws of this or any other Council to which you may be attached, so long as they do not conflict with the Constitution of the United States, nor that of the State in which you reside; that you will, under all circumstances, if in your power so to do, attend to all regular signs or summons that may be thrown or sent to you by a Brother of this or any other degree of this Order; that you will support to all political matters, for all political offices, members of this Order, in preference to other persons; that if it may be done legally, you will not vote nor support for any political office or place, whatever. All this you do solemnly swear (or affirm) upon your honor as American citizens and friends of the American Union, to sustain and abide by it without any hesitation or mental reservation whatever. I've also promise and swear (or affirm) that this, and all other obligations which you have previously taken in this Order, shall ever be kept sacred and inviolate. To all this you pledge your lives, your fortunes, and your sacred honors. So help you God and keep you steadfast! (Each one shall answer, "I do.")

The candidates are then invested with everything appertaining to the second degree as in the first.

RITUAL OF THE THIRD DEGREE.

THIRD DEGREE COUNCIL.

The President administers to the candidates elect the following

OBLIGATION.

You, and each of you, of your own free will and accord, in the presence of Almighty God and these witnesses, with your hands joined in token of the fraternal affection which should ever bind together the friends of this Union—forming a ring, in token of your determination that, so far as your efforts can avail, this Union shall have no end—do solemnly and sincerely swear (or affirm,) that you will not under any circumstances disclose in any manner, nor suffer it to be done by others if in your power to prevent, the name, sign, pass-words or other secrets of this Degree, except in open Council for the purpose of instruction; that you will at all times conform to all the rules and regulations of this Order, and to the Constitution and By-laws of this or any other Council to which you may be attached, so long as they do not conflict with the Constitution of the United States, nor that of the State in which you reside; that you will, under all circumstances, if in your power so to do, attend to all regular signs or summons that may be thrown or sent to you by a Brother of this or any other degree of this Order; that you will support to all political matters, for all political offices, members of this Order, in preference to other persons; that if it may be done legally, you will not vote nor support for any political office or place, whatever. All this you do solemnly swear (or affirm) upon your honor as American citizens and friends of the American Union, to sustain and abide by it without any hesitation or mental reservation whatever. I've also promise and swear (or affirm) that this, and all other obligations which you have previously taken in this Order, shall ever be kept sacred and inviolate. To all this you pledge your lives, your fortunes, and your sacred honors. So help you God and keep you steadfast! (Each one shall answer, "I do.")

After the candidates have been instructed in the mysteries of the third degree of the Order, the following charge is given by the President:

BROTHERS: It is with great pleasure that I congratulate you upon your advancement to the Third Degree of our Order. The responsibilities you have now assumed are more serious and weighty than those which preceded, and are intended to be such only as have been tried and found worthy. Our obligations are intended to impress upon us our duty to the land that gave us birth, to the memories of our fathers, and to the happiness and welfare of our children. Considering your country as again upon the threshold of a destiny like that which marked her birth, the Patriots of the Revolution have placed your hands upon the helm of a Union which your trust will guide and direct. Your department among your initiates, has attested your devotion to the principles we desire to inculcate; and has imparted a consciousness to your minds of which we can give no higher proof than your admission here.

The degree which thereon distinctly differs from other, and, in some respects, higher. The Third Degree points out more sacred duties of the most imminent peril, and indicated the first measure of safety. The Second Degree defined the most means by which, in emergency, such safety might be rendered secure. The Third Degree, which you have just received, not only reiterates the lessons of the other two, but is a step further, and points out a more remote but no less terrible danger from domestic enemies to our free institutions.

Our object is briefly this: To perfect an organization, modeled after that of the Constitution of the United States, and consistent with the tendency, its object and principles in all matters of national concern to be uniform and identical, whilst in all local matters, the component parts shall remain independent and sovereign within their respective limits.

The great result to be attained—the only one which can secure a perfect guaranty as to our future—is UNION; permanent, enduring, fraternal Union! Allow me then to impress upon your minds and memories the touching sentiments of the Father of his Country, in his farewell address: "The UNITY of Government, which constitutes you one people," says WASHINGTON, "is justly dear to you, for it is the main pillar in the edifice of your real independence, the support of your tranquillity at home, of your peace abroad, of your safety, your prosperity, even that Liberty you so justly prize."

"It is of infinite moment that you should properly estimate the immense value of your National Union, to your collective and individual happiness. You should cherish a cordial, habitual, and immovable attachment to it; accustoming yourselves to think and speak of it, as the palladium of your political safety and prosperity; watching for its preservation with jealous anxiety; discountenancing whatever may suggest even a suspicion that it can in any event be abandoned, and indignantly frowning upon the first dawning of every attempt to alienate any portion of our country from the rest, or to enfeeble the sacred ties which now bind together the various parts."

Let these words of paternal advice and warning, from the greatest man that ever lived, sink deep into your hearts! Cherish them, and teach your children to reverence them, as you cherish and reverence the memory of WASHINGTON himself. The Union of the States is the great conservator of liberty so dear to the American heart. Without it, our greatness, as a nation, would disappear, and our boasted self-government prove a signal failure. The very name of Liberty, and the hopes of struggling Freedom throughout the world, must perish in the wreck of this Union! Devote yourselves then to its maintenance, as our fathers did to the cause of independence; consecrating to its support, as you have sworn to do, your lives, your fortunes, and your sacred honors!

Brothers: Resulting to your minds the solemn obligations, which you have severally taken in this and the preceding Degrees, I now pronounce you entitled to all the privileges of membership in this Organization; and take pleasure in informing you that you are now members of the Order of " " "

Kinney's Expedition—The Country to be Colonized.

From the Evening Post.

According to the statements which we derive from Mr. FABENS, the United States Consul at San Juan, the "Nicaragua Land and Mining Company" have a valid title to one and a half million acres of land, principally in the mountainous district of Chontales, bordering on the large and beautiful lake of Nicaragua. Some of these lands have been purchased from the Government and the Chiefs of Nicaragua, both of which, by reason of the incessant wars to which they are parties, frequently find the want of ready money, and are, consequently, willing to sell their possessions cheap. The title to others rests in certain wealthy landowners connected with the Company, who are desirous of inviting settlers to their vicinity. Within the domains of this Company is the fine island known as St. George's Key, at the mouth of Great River, where the most extensive mahogany tracts, and where the sarsaparilla, the India rubber and the ebo, from the fruit of which a valuable oil is extracted, are found in great abundance.

Among the valuable woods in the main land district of Chontales are mahogany, rosewood, satinwood, black cedar, Brazilletto, and the costly dye-wood known in commerce as the Lima or Nicaragua wood. In some localities the ceiba or wild cotton tree flourishes, growing in a few years to such a size that a dozen men can hardly embrace it with their arms. Three crops of corn are easily obtained yearly, and tropical fruits of all sorts exist in profusion. Chontales is famous as a grazing country, having the best pasture lands in Central America. The traveler never loses sight of herds of cattle, with troops of wild deer frolicking on their skirts. Other game, such as wild turkey, quail and woodcock, are also plentiful, and the mountain streams furnish trout of a delicate flavor.

Besides these, there exist mines of gold, silver, coal and other minerals, of which promising specimens have been exhibited in this city. When these sources of wealth are once fairly opened and developed, we may look forward to another California in this now neglected and thinly peopled region.

The climate of Chontales, we are told, is delightful, the temperature on the mountains being cool and invigorating, while upon the plains, where the thermometer ranges from 60 to 70 degrees, owing to the refreshing breezes from the great lake of Nicaragua, it is never oppressively hot. Such is the testimony of Squier, who says of Nicaragua that "its climate is so favorably modified by a variety of causes as to be rendered not only agreeable but quite as salubrious as that of any equal extent of country under the tropics."

That such a country affords a desirable field for energetic and thrifty colonists cannot be doubted, and it was with the view of attracting such men that the late President CHAMORRO, shortly before his death, sent a letter by Mr. FABENS, offering inducements to Americans to emigrate to Nicaragua, and engage in the cultivation of coffee, by the diligent attention to which the neighboring state of Costa Rica, (Rich Coast) so-called originally in derision for its poverty, had in ten years become well entitled to its name. A similar attention to the development of its resources, with a similar exemption from civil commotions, might be attended with like results in Nicaragua.

We should be glad to hope that Colonel KINNEY's expedition may cooperate in this work of regenerating Nicaragua. To many minds it will derive a certain interest from the peculiar antecedents of its leader, its possible results upon the destiny of our own Government, and from the fact that it is the first attempt at colonizing the interior of Central America made by representatives of the Anglo-Saxon stock.

More than three centuries ago another expedition was made by one of a different race, which gave a distinctive character to the institutions and the subsequent history of this portion of the continent. COORTES, having established the Spanish dominion in Mexico, he heard of nations further south still unvisited, and in a letter to his master, CHARLES the Fifth, he writes as follows:

"I have received information as well of the great riches of that country, as that in the opinion of navigators there exists a strait leading from that bay, (probably the bay of Honduras) into the opposite sea, which in the thing above all others in this world I am desirous of meeting with, consistent of the immense utility which I conceive would result from it, to the advantage of your Imperial Majesty."

The officer selected by CORTES to effect his purpose, was Don PEDRO DE ALVARADO, whose exploits in traversing an unknown country, in fighting the forces of rebellious chiefs, amounting, in one battle, to 120,000 warriors, and in making conquests, are described with some minuteness by the Spanish chroniclers.

The first site upon which his cavaliers fixed their longing eyes for a permanent habitation was the old city of Guatemala, a magnificent valley elevated five or six thousand feet above the level of the sea, undulating between two lofty volcanoes; with a mild and equable climate, abounding streams, a population so industrious and unwarlike, and with such a proper opulence of beauty, that they lost all desire of returning to their native land or advancing to further conquests. No wonder that, tired of long and conjugatory work, and under the enchantment of that delightful air, they should forget the threatening dangers of the vicinity, and found a city on the banks of the Rio Pensativo.

What has followed this invasion is well known. The disappearance or degeneracy of the aboriginal race, political miracle and anarchy, and social and moral decline, while the material resources of the country have remained almost as entirely undeveloped as at the time when its tropical beauty called forth the admiration of the ambitious followers of ALVARADO or MONTEZUMA. We trust the people of Central America have reasons for anticipating better results from the enterprise of Col. KINNEY.

Another Letter from Mrs. Patterson.

BAY RANDOLPH, April 24, 1855.

To the Editor of the Boston Daily Times:

The papers have been again snarling about me. The Transcript—whose editor is a good judge of maple sugar—has uttered falsehood upon falsehood in regard to my private affairs. I don't want Mr. HAMMOND, or anybody else, to trouble themselves about my affairs. I can take care of them myself, and have some interest left. If my husband sends me money through the hands of Col. WEBSTER, or Col. DRITZ, the NAVY agents—one that was and one that is, clerks in my husband's office, and some of your speaking editorial paragraphs have a right to make the fact notorious. If these fellows expect me to write them, they are damnably mistaken, as HAYES said when he brought the shoulder of mutton of SAM. WILLIS.

Now, Mr. Editor, have already been kind enough to publish a letter, giving a truthful history of myself. I write that letter for a friend, a gentleman who has been malignantly assailed by the priestly beldam who control the concerns of a political and unscrupulous journal. His defence was what I solely aimed at, and not to attract attention to my own humble name or self.

Mr. Editor, I am not afraid to acknowledge that Bishop FITZPATRICK is a great, good, benevolent, magnanimous man. If he knew how, he would have been as popular as Bishop. But Bishop FITZPATRICK, not PATRICK DONAHOE, nor Colonel Governor WRIGHT, neither nor all of them,—the latter with his regiment at his heels, can make me sunny when I've writ. I stick by it, every syllable, every letter, and assume that all your investigating committees, and your committees to try innocent men, shall strive in vain to wring from me any other revelation save the already made. My business lawyer for justice and rights, and justice and right shall have their due; and I'll see they do.

Mr. Editor, I am now at East Randolph, binding above. I prefer the country in the Spring, as it gives the mind, young or old, a cheerfulness—peculiarly fine men and things, politics, religion. Nature, and all her pretty Spring flowers—some of life, and light, and game, as Fanny Fern would say.

Mr. Editor, I've short hair from me again.

Accept my kind wishes, as ever, truly, obliged, and believe me, ever, yours,

MATILDA PATTERSON.

P. S.—Please send me a copy of Bellew's Pictorial, with Major Ben Perley Poore's history of the office crude. Also, a copy of Mr. Hamm's speech, and any other characteristic of the man that has been said of the day that you may have no further use for.

LATER FROM TEXAS.

Sale of San Antonio City Lands—Shooting of the Steamer Fort Henry—Proceedings of Congress at Chico—Pistol Affray—Death of G. K. Lewis.

From the New-Orleans Picayune, April 24.

By the arrival of the steamship Matanzas, Capt. JOHN T. LAWSON, from Galveston and Galveston, we have Austin and San Antonio papers to the 14th, and Galveston papers to the 19th inst., and also a number of other Texas papers.

By order of the City Council of San Antonio there was a sale of city lands by auction on the 10th, 11th, and 12th inst. One hundred and twenty-four lots were sold, and there was a spirited competition. The Ledger says:

"The amount realized by the sale was $20,000. In all cases every instance the lots were sold for greatly more than the appraised valuation, and in some instances exceedingly so much. This result proves two things, one is, that our citizens are not so much pressed for money as they have been represented to be, and the other is the universal belief of our business men, and the other is the universal belief of our business men, and the other is the universal belief of our business men

NOTICES OF NEW BOOKS.

THE POSITIVE PHILOSOPHY OF AUGUSTE COMTE. Translated by HARRIET MARTINEAU. Reprinted verbatim from the London edition. pp. 688, royal 8vo. New-York: CALVIN BLANCHARD.

In a former number of this paper we reviewed at some length the English edition of this work, imported and sold by the Messrs. APPLETONS of this City. The volume now before us is an American reprint, rivaling the London copy in beauty, with the advantage of being in one volume instead of two. The typography, paper, binding—the whole appearance, in short—of the work is fully equal to English predecessor, and must commend it to the favor of every lover of handsome literary work; except, indeed, where the peculiar philosophy of the author excludes it from admiration, which will rarely or never be the case among scholars and men of intellect.

The book, to speak the truth of it, is objectionable enough, in many respects. It is thoroughly materialistic, and treatises very closely upon the head understanding atheism. These features we expressed in our previous notice of it. But even with this impediment to its usefulness, it is a work of no common power; no mean thought, no much without contribution to real science, that it balances an invaluable aid to every thinking mind. Mr. LEWES in his Biographical History of Philosophy, says of it: "The Cours de Philosophie Positive is the greatest work of our century, and will form one of the mighty landmarks in the history of opinion. COMTE first showed how positive, nay, how imperative it was that social questions should be treated on the same footing with all other scientific questions."

About the merits of Miss MARTINEAU's translation there can be no question. She has, it is true, abbreviated her author; the original work being in six volumes. But she has omitted nothing of importance; nothing, at the most part, the repetitions and discursive which were transportable from the plan of publication pursued by M. COMTE. The preface which she has prefixed to the work will afford orthodox students more than the work itself, and consider much that we should have been glad to have seen omitted. Further, we have only to recommend M. COMTE to the recipe of atheistic philosophy—they may withstand his errors, repudiate what they may deem his sophistries; but they cannot but be profited by his knowledge. One of the most profound thinkers of the age is Mr. MILL, who in his System of Logic speaks thus of M. COMTE and his work: "He may truly be said to have created the philosophy of the higher mathematics. . . . A work which only requires to be better known to place its author in the very highest class of European thinkers. . . . A work which I hold to be by far the greatest yet produced on the philosophy of the sciences. . . . His work is the only science to which the reader can resort for practical exemplification of the study of social phenomena on the true principles of the inductive method. Of that method I do not hesitate to pronounce it a model. . . . A sociology, not opinion widely removed from the vague and conjectural character of all former attempts, and worthy to take its place, at least, among established sciences."

We have nothing to add to these extracts from the leading work of one of the greatest thinkers of the age. Having, as we have said, already bestowed considerable space on a review of the English edition of M. COMTE's work. Frankly, while we must admire the author's great learning and extraordinary genius for philosophic research, we have little but regret and condemnation to bestow upon his principles. He is a materialist as rank as OKEN, and an Atheist almost as decided as BRUNO.

ISRAEL POTTER—HIS FIFTY YEARS OF EXILE. By HERMAN MELVILLE. New-York: G. P. PUTNAM & CO.

Publishing a book of this sort in the successive numbers of a monthly, is like carrying to one a rose leaf by leaf—where fragrance in such small installments can scarcely be appreciated. These Chapters of Mr. PORTER's experience, written down by the facile pen of MELVILLE, were among the chief attractions of Putnam's Monthly during the last year, but we were by no means impressed on piecemeal, with them while they were the fragrance of a social, or now that the several parts are regathered upon their proper stem, and bound handsomely, as it were, in a fitting sepal. It is a book to begin reading at night, when work is done, and to finish the next night. The nonchalance on it during the intervening day are pleasant, and the night's dreams will wonder even a new catch.

Israel Potter was a Yankee boy, who loved too young and too very from his father because the old gentleman hooked him off from the intended marriage. He was private, and an effective one, at Bunker's Hill; and afterwards, while on board a brigantine appointed to intercept supplies going to the British quarters in Boston, is captured and carried to England. Then follow scenes of imprisonment, escapes from the holes and from prison, adventures over the land, and drifting hither and thither, new events and new escapes. He gets into all sorts of positions in his desire to escape detention in the enemy's country. He is taken by mean men, the confidant of great ones, and at one time private gardener to the King, where he called "Master," and respectfully addressed as "Sir." These interviews of his with Jacobite men furnish comprehensive for episodes that are the finest portions of the book. The narration of his imprisonment in the private room of BENJAMIN FRANKLIN in Paris, gives us some pages of wholesome and humorous philosophy not unlike or unworthy of Poor RICHARD. Another scene introduces us to the famous author of the Discourses of Paley.

Another chapter shows us old EPHRAIM TICONDEROGA ALLEN, on he been it to be measured and handled by correspondy engaged. Israel, by the circumstances of war, was a long time under the command of that heroic seaman, Paul Jones, and was in the Bonhomme Richard when he fought the great battle with the Serapis. This deadly encounter is sketched briefly, and with few lines. But MELVILLE other, with a few words, selected with marvelous sagacity, gives us a finer and more life-like description than most men create out of long chapters and thick books; as one with a single scrapes who knows how to handle it, sketches a better portrait than many dainty painters make out of their collection of finest colors, and after very tedious sittings.

The author is so brief about the forty years that roll over and almost crush the inborn Yankee cheerfulness out of his hero, that we wonder whether he really lacked the MILL that contained the outlines of his story while he was sinking from the damp basement to the mostly cellar, and from that to the muddy sewer, or whether the engagement with the publisher was "for only so many pages," of which the heroic look the Men's sheep. Then it grieved us at first that the tired old man could not have found one friend to lean on the Monmouth country to sit down and chat with as his son was asking. But we remember that out of the magazines and in the world, wanderers, after fifty years of exile, seldom find a warm hearth or a familiar face to cheer them. So we must take it out in grieving that it is so, or be reconciled to authors that we make it.

A TREATISE ON THE LAW OF HOMICIDE IN THE UNITED STATES. By FRANCIS WHARTON. Philadelphia: KAY & BROTHER. New-York: LEWIS & BROTHER.

The Messrs. KAY have presented a handsome volume of over 500 closely printed pages, upon the most important branch of Criminal Law. In the progress of American jurisprudence there have come about some departures from the rules of the English Common Law upon this topic; and the principal aim of the Law of Homicide in this country sufficiently demands the treatise before us.

Mr. WHARTON, the author, is known already by several works on American Criminal Law. The general volume is based, so far as the leading English cases go, upon the works of East and Russell. In respect to the general arrangement of the work, and to most points of the law, Mr. WHARTON's labors are original. One hundred and twenty pages are occupied by an appendix, which presents leading American cases not previously reported. It contains RICHARD HURD's case, Mr. STEVENS's case, three Philadelphia riot cases, known as DALLY's, HARE's and BRADY's cases, and the case of the commonest Henry Clay. Perhaps the most valuable portion of the work is the twelfth chapter, which contains a condensed view of the rules of evidence in Homicide.

Our courts are yet now particularly occupied with murder cases, and this treatise may prove economic at this time.

We notice one chapter of twenty pages devoted to the suggestive topic, if Homicide be affected by Slavery. The killing of a white man by a slave receives the attention of seventeen pages. The killing of a slave by a white man is mentioned in less than three. And both these conclusions are drawn. Abstract rights from the Constitution to the rights from the Bible. Association in labor is conceded to the power of humanity commanded in the Gospel. On the point, then, which the relations of the parties are concerned, the rule is obscure, and obscure language from the class, to the contrary is considered as a prevention, pointing the prime from murder to manslaughter.

A LONG LOOK AHEAD; OR, THE FIRST STRUGGLE AND THE LAST. By A. S. HILL. New-York: J. C. DERBY.

This is a delightful novel, of a sort that we can heartily commend. There is not a sentence in it that is calculated to do an injury, and its whole drift, intent, and teaching are commendable. It is the simple story of a young Yankee, who, with his brother, when the old worn-out homestead farm and "feather it up" in a prosperous and paying state. The pictures of Connecticut life are exceedingly pleasant and truthful—natural indeed it can be making things run too smoothly, and in throwing too little of the rough side of village life. With admirable skill, the author, when he sees his hero is breaking his neck, tells us so seriously how he did it that we did elsewhere would add another rule. When he is set to making a snow-fence, we go with him and feel, after the day's work is done, that we know how to do it as well as another. So it is a sort of a manual for young farmers, only so written that the reader must finish it as soon as possible after it is begun.

And yet Charles Lovell—for that is the name of the principal character—is rather too much of what Addison call "a wise young man" to be quite as agreeable as the author would have him; and if any one fancies that he will have no good luck in trying to harmonize and bring into familiar friendship the Presbyterian, Methodist and High Church elements of his town, as Charles did, there will be a sad disappointment experienced. However, it will be no harm to try, and this amazingly bright coloring will not be very likely to mislead. After reading A Long Look Ahead, one feels a great longing for cozier homesteads; and even without forgetting that hard work stiffens the joints and fills the bones with rheumatism and aches, his affections are turned irresistibly outward.

ENGLISH PAST AND PRESENT. By RICHARD CHENEVIX FRENCH, D. D. 1 vol. 12mo. pp. 319. SHEFFIELD, New-York.

The reputation which Archdeacon FRENCH has obtained, as one of the best philologists of the day, will not only be fully maintained but much extended by this volume. He is a careful and accurate investigator and recorder, and no one has more thoroughly traced the English language back to its sources. Here we have him acting as its historian, blending entertainment with instruction, and exhibiting the treasures of research without the dross of pedantry. It really is curious to trace, with him, the various changes which have taken place, not only in the language itself, but in the use and application of individual words. One thing we particularly learn from this book—namely, that much of what the present race of English call "Americanisms" is actually part and parcel of the language, as brought hither by the early settlers, and retained to this day as used by them, whereas the words have become obsolete in the Mother Country. The work, which is happily relieved by a good deal of pleasant anecdote, is a worthy companion to Mr. FRENCH's previous publications—On the Study of Words, and On the Lessons of Proverbs. Every body who desires to understand the language which he speaks and writes, should study Mr. FRENCH's useful and pleasant volumes.

SPELLER AND DEFINER'S MANUAL. By WM. W. SPRAGUE, Principal of Chester School No. 1. New-York: BURGESS & CO., John-street.

This work contains a large collection of the most useful words of our language, arranged in groups, and correctly spelled, pronounced and defined, together with a list of numerous words and phrases from other languages, much used in English Composition. It also contains Rules for Spelling, a list of Abbreviations, and a Vocabulary, by means of which the signification and use of any particular word may be readily ascertained. This last is a novel and valuable feature in a Spelling book. The questions at the bottom of each page, the answers to which the thoughtful pupil will discover in the text, are well calculated to throw interest around that which children are apt to consider dry and distasteful—spelling lessons. In this volume is also a large collection of words that resemble each other in pronunciation, but of different meanings; and these are to be contrasted and applied in sentences, by the pupil, assisted by the questions in the margin. Such questions and exercises tend to form in youthful minds habits of carefulness and correctness in the use of words in conversation, and in written composition. We commend the work to the notice of teachers and others interested.

THE LAW OF FIXTURES. With an Appendix containing Statutes, Rules and Decisions relating to Fixtures. By JOHN TAYLOR. Second American Edition. By ANDREW HAMILTON. 1 vol., 214 pp. New-York: BANKS, GOULD & CO.

It is now thirty years since AMOS and FERARD, in England, published the volume upon the law of fixtures, which is the basis of the present work. It was good and justly appreciated;—was regarded as a reliable and acceptable compound of the existing law upon the subject; and many of its suggestions relating to questions then unsettled, have been since adopted as sound principles, and sanctioned by judicial authority. Mr. AMOS is no longer living. Mr. FERARD has now published a new edition of the work, embracing a review of the numerous cases which have been adjudicated in the long interval by the Courts of Great Britain; and we have here a reprint of this latest edition, with the addition of copious extracts from the American leading cases upon the subject.

It is not necessary to commend the original work to the legal profession,—it is already well known to them. The present edition is increased in value by the full citation of the American cases, indispensable to the practitioner in this country.

THE LAW GLOSSARY. A Collection of the Foreign Words and Phrases Found in the Leading Reports and Treatises. By THOMAS TAYLOR. Fourth edition. 1 vol. 450 pp. Published by LEWIS & BROTHER, New-York.

An excellent dictionary of the hard words in the law; full, clear, concise and well got up. It confers itself for the most part to giving the definition or translation of each term or maxim, without undertaking those prestige-like unsatisfactory expositions of the law which are attempted in the law dictionaries, so-called. In the present edition one hundred pages of new matter are added, and the publishers say that they now regard the work as complete, and that the present will be its permanent form. This edition comes highly commended by Chief Justice SAVAGE, the late Vice-Chancellor McCOUN, and other distinguished members of the profession.

THE HISTORY OF THE HEN FEVER. A Humorous Poem. By GEORGE F. BURNHAM. Boston: JAMES FRENCH & CO. New-York: J. O. DERBY.

This is a smart and lively history, by one who "had it in the natural way," of the hen fever that swept over our country like an epidemic, and is not yet entirely stayed. Mr. BURNHAM is a small BARNUM, by no means BARNUM's equal in his bold lashing a story, and far behind him in parading his morality. But in tickling the green fowl-fanciers and in filling his pockets unearned with their dimes, he is not an unapt disciple. There is some caricature that is preferred in a pleasant way, and some good hits at others than the late purchasers of his birds. But though it is said to be "humorous," we have not laughed very hard over it, nor is it worth much commendation.

PROGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES IN POPULATION AND WEALTH IN FIFTY YEARS. With Appendix, containing an abstract of the Census of 1854. By GEORGE TUCKER. Published and for sale at HUNT'S Merchants' Magazine Office.

Professor TUCKER's admirable work has been before the world some years, and in among the most valuable of our standard statistical works. The matter contained in the appendix seems to have been prepared with equal care, and with no less attention to exciting accuracy. Its several chapters treat of the population, the progress between the census, immigration, the probabilities of life, the future increase of population, the religion of the people, their occupations and crimes, and the rules of their industrial production.

HISTORY OF THE HOLY BIBLE. By JOHN FLEETWOOD, D. D. New-York: GARTON & BROTHERS. 1 vol. 12mo. pp. 400.

This is an excellent work, not unworthy the high reputation of the author of the Life of Christ. It attempts to represent, in connected form and chronological order, the contents of the world's history from the Christian Era. Much light is thrown upon doubtful passages, and many times, supplied from profane history, are introduced in their proper places. Written in simple style, with numerous illustrations, it is a valuable aid to all interested and learned students. It is illustrated with several good engravings.

THE AUGUSTAN AGE OF FRANCE. By Rev. J. F. ROBERTS. Boston: JEWETT & CO. New-York: SHELDON, LAMPORT & BLAKEMAN.

This is the translation, by Dr. E. N. KIRK, of a course of lectures delivered by a gentleman of Paris. New-York audiences. They are mostly literary, and very well calculated to interest the reader in French literature. The age of Louis XIV. is now subject of the lectures. The remainder are given to PASCAL, CORNEILLE, FENELON, LA FONTAINE, BOILEAU, RACINE and MOLIERE. The volume is which the author and the translation is excellent, and elegant.

THE ROBERTSONIAN FRENCH GRAMMAR, FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY LANGUAGE. By J. ROBERTSON, Professor of Languages. New-York: ROBERTSON & CO.

This is the system, and ROBERTSON's is the book for those who would learn French in the most economical way. It is based upon PERCAUSTON's principle, upon which GRAMMONT and others have so much system that have proved of exceeding great service to students. Mr. R.'s arrangement seems to be more natural, and his progress from the "simpler" into the distinctive of the language better graded than those of any predecessor.

THE AMERICAN DEBATER. By James S. McKINCOTT. New-York: IVISON & PHINNEY.

This is a very good exposition of the principles and practice of public debate, containing an account of the qualifications necessary to a good deliberative orator, the rules of order, topics for debate, the forms of sundry debating clubs, &c. It is valuable for debating societies.

THE RICH BINGMAN. By Rev Dr. FRENCH. New-York: CARTER.

This volume is composed of a series of Dr. TYNG's lectures delivered to the young of his congregation, upon lessons that may be drawn from the history of Ruth the Moabitess. They were well received as lectures, and will be useful as a book for the same class.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. announce that they will shortly publish an edition of the Reports of the Supreme Court of the United States, comprising, in eighteen volumes, the decisions of the Court down to December, 1854; being the cases reported by DALLAS, CRANCH, WHEATON, PETERS and HOWARD. The new edition is prepared by Judge CURTIS, a member of the Court, and is offered to subscribers at $5 per volume. The aggregate price of the old reports is upwards of $300.

Geographic Elementaire.—This is Peter Parley's Elementary Geography, translated into French by Dr. L. E. DUBUISSON, for the use of schools and families. The excellent reputation of Mr. GOODRICH's school books in the original, has prepared the way for their wide circulation in France. BUTTERS & Co., of Philadelphia, are the publishers, and their work is creditable to their house and to the author.

The Genius of Italy, by Rev. Dr. ROBERT TURNBULL, has reached its fourth edition. It has been thoroughly revised, and contains interesting sketches of MAZZINI, GAVAZZI, RAZZI, and BERTINI. It is illustrated and brought out in creditable style by Mr. DICKERSON, No. 607 Broadway.

Man's Practical Land Drainer.—This treatise on draining land details and compares the merits of the most approved systems, and explains the scientific principles on which they depend. It is numerously illustrated. New-York: C. M. SAXTON & Co.

GREAT CONFLAGRATION IN BOSTON.

Buildings and Cotton Destroyed—Vessels Damaged—Loss of Half a Million.

From the Boston Journal, of Saturday evening.

Our city was visited yesterday afternoon with one of the most destructive conflagrations which has occurred here for several years. The following are the particulars of the fire so far as can be ascertained:

About 2½ o'clock, fire broke out in a rear building near the head of North Battery Wharf, built on a leased estate by EDWARD MATHEWS, and occupied by Messrs. BALLOU and MCALLISTER, dealers in paper, stock, &c., and by Mr. MATHEWS as a storehouse.

Mr. MATHEWS' loss is estimated at $40,000, on which there is $20,000 insurance at several offices.

Messrs. BALLOU & MCALLISTER estimate their loss at $3,000, which is fully covered by insurance.

The wind was blowing strongly from a northwesterly direction, and drove the flames with great rapidity down the wharf, and across the dock to LINCOLN's Wharf, destroying all the principal storehouses and other buildings there standing.

The storehouses on Battery Wharf were filled with cotton and other merchandise, nearly all of which was destroyed.

The building connected with the People's Ferry, including a long block of two-story wooden stores, just finished by CHARLES F. UPHAM for ARNOLD W. TAYLOR, were entirely destroyed.

The loss to the People's Ferry Company is variously estimated at from $10,000 to $30,000, but the general impression is that the first named sum will cover their loss.

A large lot of pork and corned beef in barrels, belonging to the U. S., owned by HARRISON FAY, was thrown overboard in such a manner as to save the barrels.

It was a curious sight to witness the operations of the land pirates, sharks, or wreckers, in securing plunder. As for instance, they would seize a barrel of beef that was partially burned, and upsetting the contents of the barrel upon the wharf, throw the empty barrel overboard, and then, piece by piece, pitch the beef or pork into their boats alongside the wharf. In this way they secured a large quantity of the damaged pork and beef, and carried it off in their boats. A large quantity of lumber was also saved by THAYER, BEAN & Co., on Battery wharf, and was destroyed by water.

A large quantity of lumber, owned by THAYER, BEAN & Co., was on Battery wharf, and was destroyed by water.

The buildings, so far as ascertained, included those occupied by EDW. MATHEWS, as a storehouse; Capt. MATHEWS, ostler; CLARK & BARNES, salt dealers; GODDARD & SON, M. KELLY, GEORGE BARTOLL, ship chandlers; PETER & BACON's storehouse; the large portion of Messrs. WEBSTER & GERRARD'S boat-building establishment; HARRIS & DILLON, shipwrights and caulkers; A. MCKENNE & Co.

The building occupied by the Harbor Police and Engine Company No. 5 was on fire several times, but was saved with but little damage.

The amount of opera burned over appears to be considerably short three acres; and, although the loss of buildings (which were principally old and of wood) will be comparatively slight, yet the destruction of cotton and other valuable merchandise which was stored in them will swell the loss to a very heavy amount.

Unfortunately the tide was almost at the lowest ebb which not only prevented the vessels from being readily hauled off, but rendered it extremely difficult to procure an abundance of water.

We have heard of but one casualty. A man was seen clinging to the main topsail yard of the ship Sirius, and, being apparently unfriended with smoke, fell into the flames. He was immediately picked up and removed.

The flames spread with fearful rapidity among the combustible materials with which they came in contact, and raged with great violence until too far in the ascendant, when the efforts of those who worked the tires became gained the victory and stayed the further progress of the devouring element.

At one time it was thought that the immense range of granite warehouses on Union wharf, belonging to the United States, would prevent the extension of the flames in a southerly direction. Although it was feared that the block was in danger, inasmuch as the interior windows are protected by iron shutters, while the outer windows in the lower stories have that protection. Fortunately, however, the wind shifted more to the westward, and that building, together with three or four wooden structures on the southerly side of Lincoln's wharf, was saved from harm.

Three fire engines, viz. Washington 2, of Chelsea, Melville 6, and old "Relief" in charge of Co. No. 7, were burned, so that nothing but the hydraulic pressure of the machine remain. Perkins Engine No. 3 was slightly scorched, but was saved by being taken on board the tug Diana. Eagle Engine No. 2, and Webster No. 13 were also somewhat damaged by the flames.

One or two other engines were reported as being overboard. Some of the firemen, in order to save themselves from the fate of their engines, were obliged to leap into the dock and swim to adjacent wharves.

The shipping in the vicinity of the fire suffered severely, and the loss on this description of property will amount to a very large sum. Fortunately a number of vessels were removed from their dangerous position, otherwise the loss would have been far greater.

The following are the vessels that drifted from the fire:

The ship Fantastic, of Boston, is completely burned up. She recently arrived from New-Orleans, but her cargo was nearly all discharged. She was a good ship of 617 tons burden, and was owned by T. MAGOUN and others of this city.

The ship [illegible] of Boston, was moored off Commercial wharf, and was on fire in the rigging when the fire was first discovered. She had on board a full cargo of cotton, and was nearly all consumed. The loss will be very heavy.

The ship Sirius, of Boston, was moored off Commercial wharf, and was on fire in the rigging when the fire was first discovered. She had on board a full cargo of cotton, and was nearly all consumed. The loss will be very heavy.

The bark Mary E. Barney, of Boston, was moored off Commercial wharf, and was on fire in the rigging when the fire was first discovered. She had on board a full cargo of cotton, and was nearly all consumed. The loss will be very heavy.

The bark Ann, of Boston, was moored off Commercial wharf, and was on fire in the rigging when the fire was first discovered. She had on board a full cargo of cotton, and was nearly all consumed. The loss will be very heavy.

The schooner Robert Paine, of Nova Scotia, moored with merchandise, to a mooring.

The schooner Mexico Baby, of Wilmington, Me., was badly damaged; and a schooner, Thomas Morgan, had her rigging and sails damaged.

The schooner Thomas Clement, of Boston, was moored off Commercial wharf, and was on fire in the rigging when the fire was first discovered.

The schooner Robert Paine, of Nova Scotia, moored off Commercial wharf, and was on fire in the rigging when the fire was first discovered

New-York Daily Times.

NEW-YORK MONDAY, APRIL 30, 1855.

JOB PRINTING.

We have now fully prepared to execute all kinds of Printing—PLAIN and ORNAMENTAL, in the VERY BEST STYLE, and at LOW RATES. County Merchants who desire Bills or Circulars of any kind, get up in a neat and elegant style, may rely upon entire satisfaction.

Orders left at our office will be promptly attended to.

RAYMOND, HARPER & CO.

☞ The NEW-YORK DAILY TIMES is served in the City and vicinity for ONE SHILLING a week. Single Copies TWO CENTS. Mail Subscribers SIX DOLLARS a year.

The SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES, containing all the reading matter of the Daily, published Tuesday and Friday, is mailed at THREE DOLLARS a year.

The WEEKLY TIMES, published Saturday, is mailed at TWO DOLLARS a year for single copies. THREE Copies sent for FIVE Dollars:—FIVE Copies for EIGHT Dollars—TEN Copies for TWELVE Dollars:—TWENTY Copies for TWENTY Dollars.

The TIMES FOR CALIFORNIA is published on the departure of every Mail Steamer. Price, in wrappers, 6¼ cents for single copies.

The DAILY TIMES has a regular circulation of over 27,000 and as a medium for business and general advertising is not surpassed by any City journal.

Terms, invariably Cash in Advance.

Publication Office, No. 128 Nassau-street, corner of Beekman.

The Mayor and the Maine Law.

The meeting held on Thursday evening to congratulate the public on the passage of the Prohibitory Law, tendered public thanks to Mayor Wood for his efforts in the cause, and a "firm and unflinching support" in the discharge of the duties which the new law might devolve upon him. If the meeting had been held two days later, we doubt whether the resolution would have been adopted. The Mayor's duties under the law, at all events, are not likely, upon his construction of it, to be very onerous.

When Mayor Wood entered upon his new office, he assured the public in his inaugural address, that he should not hesitate to exercise even doubtful powers, whenever he thought the good of the City might require it. He has hitherto acted up to the spirit of the declaration. He has put his own construction upon charters and laws, and acted energetically, boldly and efficiently in the administration of public affairs. He has courted, rather than shunned, responsibility in all matters relating to the duties of his office;—and this very boldness, even when pushed to the verge of usurpation, has been popular, because it was exercised for the preservation of order and the suppression of vice.

Upon the Prohibitory Law, however, Mayor Wood takes an entirely different stand. Here he is anxious to be guided by the advice of others. Instead of executing the law as he understands it, and exercising even "doubtful powers," in order to attain the end it aims at, the Mayor calls upon the District Attorney and the Corporation Counsel for their definition of the duties which it enjoins upon him. Mr. HALL gives it as his opinion that from the 1st of May to the 4th of July there is, under the new law, no restriction whatever, not any power to impose any, on the sale of liquor. And Mr. DILLON adds his opinion that the new law does not prohibit the sale of any imported liquors whatsoever, and that the leading duty of the Mayor, as the head of the Police Department, is to see that there is no interference with the sale of such liquor, by whomsoever that sale may be made.

And in his proclamation, published in the DAILY TIMES of Saturday, the Mayor declares his purpose to act in strict conformity with these opinions. He says, that from the 1st of May to the 4th of July "no obstacle will exist to the free sale of liquor in this City, and that it can be sold the same as any other commodity;" and furthermore, that after the 4th of July the sale of imported liquors, of every class, will also be free to everybody—no license being required—and the "coercive principle" of the new bill being absolutely nullified so far as these liquors are concerned. The Mayor appends to this announcement a very urgent and emphatic recommendation to the people of the City, to abstain from the excessive use of intoxicating drinks, to show the community that coercion is not necessary, and above all, to respect the Sabbath.

Of course, so far as the Government is concerned, this is to be for New-York City the end of the Prohibitory Law. Whether it is sustained by the Court of Appeals or not, it is to be virtually a nullity in this City. There may and probably will be an effort made by individuals interested in the cause, to punish the sale of liquor, made against what they believe to be the plain and evident intent of the law. But such endeavors, lacking the support of the authorities, resisted indeed by the police force under the directions of the Mayor, and opposed also in the courts of law by the public prosecuting attorneys, must inevitably fail. This is a result of immense importance to the City, as well as to the Temperance cause, and adds another proof of the imperfections and defects in the details of the new Prohibitory Law.

The Kansas Feuds.

It looks very much as though the question of Slavery vs. Freedom in Kansas, is not to be settled without a disastrous border war. The passions of the parties to the controversy have been excited to the highest pitch. Collisions have already taken place, which are the prelude only to still more terrible conflicts, unless remedial measures are promptly adopted. A responsibility of no light weight rests upon the Executive. Prompt and effectual steps upon his part to maintain the supremacy of the law in Kansas, alone can avert the evil now so threatening. Gov. REEDER has gone to Washington, as is already known, to inform the President of the outrages recently perpetrated at the election polls, by "squatting" Missourians who went over into the Territory for the simple purpose of fraudulently voting the Slavery Propagandists in to power. Elections carried by such means must be declared void; and it will be incumbent upon the President to furnish the Governor means of preserving the purity of the ballot box when the elections are again ordered, at any cost. If he fails to do that, civil war, with all its train of untold evils, may be expected to follow. Surely, in such an emergency, we may expect prompt energy and decision.

Aminadab Sleeck.

Dignity is a most excellent thing for a worsted combatant to fall back upon,—especially when it belongs to his opponent. The Tribune, notoriously the most personal and abusive journal in the country, and which has waged for two years past a most acrid and venomous war of personal vituperation against the Editor of the TIMES, is now inexpressibly shocked at the lack of dignity displayed in our rejoinder to some of its more recent diatribes. When the TIMES, by doubling its size and price, was supposed to have become a competitor of the Tribune for public favor, a war of calumny was forthwith commenced against its Editor, which has been continued with constantly increasing virulence from that day to this. The Tribune's uniform course has been to assail his motives and malign his character, instead of combatting his opinions and meeting his arguments. Professing the most lofty and disinterested devotion to the public good, the special and exclusive endeavor of the Tribune has been to damage his reputation, and injure the business prospects of the DAILY TIMES. The Tribune has waged war upon high State officers for no better reason than because they saw fit to send advertising to this paper instead of that:—and its course has been uniformly that of bitter and relentless personal hostility towards those who ventured to think there was room for another daily journal besides the Tribune in the City of New-York.

Since the Editor of the TIMES happened to be elected Lieutenant-Governor of the State, to the exclusion of the Editor of the Tribune, the latter paper has redoubled the virulence and vehemence of its personal attacks. It denounced him first because he was not pledged to support a Prohibitory Law: and it denounced him next because he was. It fabricated and published barefaced falsehoods about his personal actions, designed and calculated to create an impression among its readers hostile to the integrity of his private character. It has been at once the most venomous and the most relentless of those who have made it their special business to malign his character and belie his conduct. No extremity of personal abuse has transcended its license, and no enormity of falsehood and injustice has been too great for its easy and familiar use. Suppressing every answer to its own inquiries—which were intended not for reply but for injury;—distorting language and falsifying facts;—dealing in epithets, inventions or innuendoes as might best serve its turn;—pretending to regard as a crime everything short of absolute total abstinence in connection with the temperance cause, and dealing its denunciations accordingly upon the Editor of the TIMES for thinking differently—it has gone on from day to day in a course of systematic and methodical personal abuse to which few parallels can be found in the history of the American Press.

We have for months forborne any reply to its assaults—feeling confident that their motive and object were understood and appreciated by the public at large. Other engagements and other obligations than those which pertain to the editorship of a public journal, have also restrained us from treating these assaults as they deserved. For the present, at least, we are released from these obligations; and we took the liberty a day or two since of showing how hypocritical, and how malignant is the motive of this crusade. We stated the fact—that this holy horror of office-seeking and office-holding now professed by the Tribune, is the offspring of personal disappointment in not obtaining the nominations which fell upon others. We stated the further fact, that the very men, advertised and known as the editors and conductors of the Tribune, who are raising so loud an outcry because the editor of the TIMES is not a pledged member of the Total Abstinence party, are not themselves, either theoretically or practically, tee-totallers, and that all their clamor on this subject is the most hypocritical and Pharisaical cant.

And here is the way in which the Tribune seeks to meet this awkward issue:

"When a high public functionary, replying to a journal which criticises his public conduct, allows himself to resort to language of personal abuse toward those whom he believes or conjectures to be the writers of that journal, he may not depart from his own dignity, but he confesses at once the weakness of his cause and the irritability of his conscience. Accordingly, we would suggest to the Lieutenant Governor that he might perhaps make a more successful explanation of his tergiversations on the Temperance Law by confining his replies to the Tribune to the question in hand, and omitting his attempts to divert the public attention from himself to private individuals, who, whatever their convictions, have not contradicted them in pledges to Conventions, have not held elevated office, nor even sought to enjoy the profit of being on both sides of any important and exciting controversy. The Lieutenant Governor is a public agent, and is responsible to his constituents and to the Press; he is just now very generally regarded as guilty of double-dealing and treachery; and though he may have no better means of justifying himself than to rain abusive imputations on others, we fear that procedure will not avail much in mitigation of the sentence the public are passing upon him."

The dignity of the Lieutenant Governor is likely to be compromised! It is in good keeping, certainly, when the Aminadab Sleeck of the Tribune take it in custody. We beg to remind those interesting and unostentatious philanthropists that we are relieved from any necessity of "conjecturing" their existence, by their own frequent publication of their names as the Editors of the Tribune;—that all their imputations of treachery and double-dealing against the Lieutenant Governor have been fully answered on his authority, in replies which they have lacked the decency or the courage either to copy or to notice;—that they are quite as responsible as he is to the public and the Press;—and that the public judgment is quite as certain to pass sentence of indignant condemnation upon a snuffling, pharisaical, malignant jealousy—seeking private revenge by falsehood under cover of regard for the public good, as upon any of the sins which stand so high on the Tribune's calendar.

A Shadow on the Wall.

Advices from London foreshadow a ministerial difficulty, which may be stated very briefly. It is connected, as all the recent Ministerial hitches have been, with that standing subject—the War in the Crimea.

Mr. ROEBUCK's Committee of Inquiry into the condition of the British army before Sebastopol, and the causes of its miserable state, has for its Chairman Lord SEYMOUR, eldest son of the Duke of SOMERSET. He was put on the Committee on the avowed ground of being nearly related to Lord RAGLAN, although, as a plain-spoken member of Parliament remarked at the time, it is not usual when a criminal is tried that he should have a relation on the jury.

It is believed that Lord SEYMOUR is necessarily prejudiced in favor of Lord RAGLAN. This has already been shown by his contending, when the question came before Parliament, that the evidence given day by day before the Committee should not be made public through the newspapers, as it would probably cause a prejudice against Lord RAGLAN and other officials, at home and abroad. The Committee adjourned over the Easter holidays until the 18th of April, at which time, (as private correspondence informs us,) it is expected that an effort will be made to close the inquiry and simply lay the evidence before the House of Commons, without any report upon it from the Committee. Such a procedure is within precedent, and would be equivalent, (almost,) to the separation of a jury without delivering a verdict. Lord SEYMOUR and several members of the Committee are said to hold this determination. Should they form a majority they can carry their views into operation. If in a minority, they can refuse to concur in the Report, or may present one of their own.

But, in Parliament as well as throughout the kingdom, there is a fixed determination not to stifle the inquiry, and to place the blame upon the proper shoulders, however aristocratical they may be. The point at issue would be—how far the PALMERSTON Ministry, (still retaining a majority of the members of the late Cabinet who are to be blamed for inefficiency as regards the Crimean army, its equipment and its care,) will allow public condemnation to be voted by Parliament. The large majority which declared for the necessity of inquiry, and thereby broke up Lord ABERDEEN's ministry, may be lessened, for Government influence is great, and "the commons of England," when it comes to the point, may, and probably will, prove reluctant to condemn the aristocratic leaders whom they have been accustomed to look up to.

Should there be any vote as to such condemnation, the majority will greatly depend on Ministerial influence. If Lord PALMERSTON, leaving it an open question, permit his usual supporters to vote as they please, something tangible may result from the ROEBUCK inquiry. Should he require them to cushion it, to nullify it, he may carry his point, but peril his popularity with the country. One way, he will virtually be condemning his quondam and some of his present colleagues—in another, he will injure himself with the public;—thirdly, should he be beaten, he weakens his position, and can never go to the country, on a general election, in that case. Any way, he seems likely to be in a dilemma.

Importation of Foreign Manufactures.

Whilst the artisans of this country are unable to procure employment, and their families are in want of the common necessaries of life, the manufactured goods of Europe are largely imported into New-York. By the St. Louis, which arrived here from Havre and Southampton on Thursday morning, two hundred tons of French and Swiss goods were brought over. The price of those articles is hard cash, and goes out of the pockets of the American people, who are accordingly engaged in paying wages to Swiss and French workmen, while many American tradesmen are walking about our streets unable to earn a cent. It is quite true that those great European manufacturers, when our ports are thrown open to their goods, can undersell native Americans in their own markets, because they have the advantage of cheap, and even pauper labor, on the other side of the Atlantic. It is a fact worthy of note that, in one branch of trade largely carried on in New-York and other cities of the Union—embroidered and fancy work—a large portion of the goods shipped here was actually wrought by the inmates of the Irish workhouses. The muslin, having the designs stamped upon it, was sent down by the merchants engaged in the trade to the poorhouses, where the girls had been trained by competent teachers, and there sewed and prepared for the American market. The trifling sums paid for this work went to the benefit of the Poor Law Union—that is to say, went into the pockets of the Irish landlords and rate payers, as the paupers were not legally entitled to receive any remuneration for their labor whilst inmates of those establishments. It is impossible for the honest trader on this side of the Atlantic to contend against such odds, so long as he gives a fair day's wages for a fair day's work—so long as the standard of wages in America is retained at that point which enables one mechanic to support their families in a proper manner. It would be better that our worthy citizens should pay a little higher for their dress of home manufacture, and keep the money in the country; for then it would be sure to circulate and confer advantages upon all classes of the community; and it would be better also that the tradesman should be employed, and pay dearer for those necessaries he may require, than to be idle and unable to purchase them at all. This great Republic has within herself all the elements requisite to make her independent of the manufactures of any country; and we are quite sure, if native industry were duly protected for a short period, that capital, skill and enterprise would be forthcoming to develop all the manufacturing resources of the Union, and relieve us from the stigma, as well as the heavy outlay incurred by being forced to purchase for our home consumption articles produced by French, Swiss and English labor. Instead of being importers, Americans might soon be in a position to export largely, and compete with France and England in all the foreign markets of the world.

The Kinney Expedition.

Mr. FARRAR, United States Consul at San Juan de Nicaragua, who was indicted a day or two since, in connection with Col. KINNEY, has not been arrested. At the very time when the warrant was issued, the Consul was on his way to Washington, having been telegraphed to visit the State Department on business relating to Central American affairs. We are thus assured of the accuracy of our surmise, that the indictment was procured by other parties than the Government—probably by Señor MARCOLETA himself. Col. KINNEY treats the indictment and arrest very lightly. We publish a letter from him, this morning, in which he disclaims all intention to violate the neutrality laws, suggests that the charge is based on the simple fact that those persons who propose to go with him to Central America choose to go armed, and expresses the conviction that the legal proceedings which have been instituted can only delay the sailing of the Expedition a few days at the utmost.

Of course the arming of Col. KINNEY's followers, and their association together, are facts to go before a jury as a part of the evidence upon which they shall determine whether this is "an armed expedition" against a friendly power, contemplated by the neutrality laws. The right of American citizens to arm themselves individually, for self-protection when journeying, has never been disputed. The naked fact then that each of the KINNEY colonists chooses to carry arms with him, can hardly bring them within the category of "military organizations." The precedents of armed emigrant associations are too numerous to admit of so stringent a construction as this. Few men cross the Plains without their rifle and revolver: and it is scarcely a year since two-thirds of our California travelers deemed it necessary to carry arms for self-protection while crossing the Isthmus. Indeed, this is even now the habit of passengers by the Nicaragua route—which still involves some two or three hundred miles of inland transit;—although the opening of the Panama Railroad has pretty much dispensed with the six-shooters among passengers by that line. If this carrying of arms is not illegal, then neither is the carrying of arms by the emigrants who go out under Colonel KINNEY, unless evidence can be produced going to show quite distinctly that they are organized as a military body, and that they are armed for the express purpose of making war on the Republic of Nicaragua. The neutrality laws are not intended to punish men for what they can do with arms in their hands, or what they may be tempted to do at some future time; but for what they actually have done or contemplate doing at the time when the indictment is laid. Colonel KINNEY is less shrewd than he has credit for, if he has been entrapped into anything which will involve his serious embarrassment. If not, his indictment will only prove a valuable advertising card.

☞ Practice, it is said, makes perfect. The maxim may illustrate the skill of the Utica Herald in crowding more untruths into a single paragraph, than any other journal of our acquaintance. In speaking of the TIMES and its course on the Maine law, it says:

Previous to the passage of the bill a year ago, it was mum on the question. When Governor Seymour vetoed the bill, and the veto was likely to prove popular, it took a decided stand against not only the bill, but also against the principle of prohibition. [Falsehood No. 1.] Six months later, its principal editor specifically pledged himself in favor of a bill "similar in its provision" to that vetoed by Governor Seymour, [Falsehood No. 2.] and denied the authorship of the anti-Maine law article in the TIMES. [Falsehood No. 3.] During the past winter it has been mum, [Falsehood No. 4.] while the Lieutenant-Governor voted for its passage [Falsehood No. 5.]

So far we have seen nothing to beat that. Judging from the variety and vigor of the experiments now in progress, however, we do not despair of seeing it surpassed.

The President on Spanish Outrages.

The Washington Union, notwithstanding its retirement from the "organship," generously comes to the rescue of the President in a long article, the object of which is to show that the Executive has gone just far enough in measures for the redress of recent Spanish outrages, and not a whit farther. This document has an unmistakeably official twist, and we cannot help believing it a "by authority" pronunciamento, just as much as though it had FRANKLIN PIERCE's signature at the end of it. With this premise, we synopticise the article thus. The President never had a doubt that the conduct of Spanish officers in stopping, boarding and examining our merchant vessels, was aggressive and violative of international law; nor does he consider it of any importance to the issue whether this stopping was brought about by "firing over" or "about" or "into" our ships; the wrong consists in the assertion of the right to visit, which is neither more nor less than the right of search.

This, then, was a grievance, and one which, as the Executive felt, called for the interposition of all the power possessed by him, both for the redress of wrongs already suffered, and a prevention of their repetition. What was the extent of the Executive power in the premises? The President could not order the Gulf Squadron to proceed to Havana and demand immediate reparation of the Captain General of Cuba, and, upon his refusal, to blockade the ports of the Island, or to bombard its towns, these would have been unequivocal acts of war. But:

"The President has no power to make war. When an injury calls for redress, he is bound to demand reparation, and if it is refused, and redress is only attainable by a resort to force, he must have the authority of Congress to proceed, unless the offending party is of that lawless or piratical character irreponsible to any Government capable of making reparation, which makes his punishment an exception to civilized rules of proceeding."

Nor could the President order our squadron to hunt up the offending Spanish cruiser and capture or sink her,—because that would be making reprisals.

So much for the past: what for the future? Says the Union:

It is the duty of the Executive to protect our commerce and our national rights on the high seas, and in these ends the President is furnished with a navy and army, and is made their commander. Although he may not constitutionally make war to redress past injuries, he may use the army or navy, or both, to prevent injuries; and, if need be, he may repel and prevent flagrant aggressions by direct resistance, even though a state of war should not be the immediate consequence. The right of self-defence belongs as well to nations as to individuals; and when a necessity arises to resort to it, brings with it the consequences of war, it is seen by the act of the attacking party, and involves no violation of executive powers.

The only question of consequence in such case is as to the time when the aggression may be resisted or repelled by the Executive. It is clear, however, that so long as the aggression continues, the resort to forcible means of resistance or punishment is lawful. If our naval or military force be present or within striking distance when an aggression takes place, whether upon our territory or one of our merchant vessels, the right and the duty to interpose for protection, resistance, and punishment, is too clear to need argument for its illustration. It is equally clear that if the naval or military force be not actually present, but reach the scene of aggression before the aggressor has consummated his outrage and retired from the place, the right to interpose exists. We should maintain that, under peculiar circumstances of aggravation and atrocity, a naval or military commander would be justifiable in looking up and punishing the offender even though the aggression had been consummated, and the offender withdrawn from the place of committing the offence. It is only in extreme cases of this kind that any real difficulty is presented as to the extent of Executive power in repelling and redressing injury and insult. Because of such difficulty the responsibility is devolved upon the President of exercising special wisdom and prudence in the protection of the officers to whom such delicate trusts are committed. That considerations like these have operated upon the Executive in placing Commodore McCAULEY in command of the gulf squadron we have no doubt; and that his prudence, circumspection, and vigilance will illustrate the propriety of the selection we have no little doubt.

It is scarcely necessary to remark, that as the late occurrences in the neighborhood of Cuba have caused the President to send a naval force there, the inference is conclusive that the object is to prevent a repetition of such occurrences and to punish them if their repetition is attempted. Those acts are regarded by the Executive as violations of international law and indignities to our flag, and aggressions upon our rights, and obstructions to our commerce, which cannot, and will not, be tolerated. Commodore McCAULEY will raise no questions of naval etiquette in connection with the exercise of the right of visitation or examination of our vessels by Spanish war ships. His business is to know that our Government repudiates all controversy as to the existence of such right, whether it be sought to cover it under the terms of "bringing to" or "firing over," or any one of the naval phrases which are learnedly investigated in some of the newspapers, or whether it is asserted openly and boldly as an existing Spanish right. He does not go there with a lexicographer in his hand to enter into philological disquisitions with Spanish captors, but to say to them, You can claim no right of search, visitation, or examination, of any vessel rightfully bearing our flag upon the high seas, under any pales or any pretext, in my presence or within my reach; if you attempt it, the act will be done at your peril. * * * * We do not pretend to conjecture whether a hostile collision will or will not result from the execution of the orders of Commodore McCAULEY. That matter is with the Spanish officials and their Government. They now know the position of our Government on the question, and they have the honor of peace or war in their hands. If they persist in their career of aggressions, war is inevitable, and war by their own act and upon their own responsibility.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—VERDI's latest Opera, "Il Trovatore," will be produced here to-night for the first time in America. It has been some time in preparation and will be placed on the stage in a superb manner. All the scenery, costumes, &c., are entirely new.

GERMAN OPERA.—Mr. JULIUS UNGER, the able conductor of the late German Opera, takes a benefit at Niblo's to-morrow evening. He will be assisted by all the leading artistes of the company, including, of course, Miss C. LEHMANN and Mad. SCHEERENBERG. The programme includes the first act of "Romeo and Juliet," a grand concert, in which the German Sangerfaude will assist, and the first and second acts of "Der Freischutz." Such an attractive bill is not often offered.

BROADWAY THEATRE.—Very large houses were attracted all last week to witness the performances of SHAKSPEARE's "Coriolanus." The excellent manner in which it has been placed on the stage renders it more than usually interesting. It will be repeated every evening this week.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—The successful novelty, "Elopements in High Life," will be played this evening, followed by "Popping the Question," and the "New Footman."

BURTON'S THEATRE.—The great DICKENS drama, "David Copperfield," will be revived here to-night with an admirable cast. Mr. BURTON assumes his favorite character of Micawber, and Mr. H. HALL, (whose engagement we hear is drawing to a close,) appears as Uriah Heep. It will be difficult to recall the original with Mr. HALL's portly person before the eyes.

BARNUM'S MUSEUM.—In the afternoon "Ambrose Gwinett;" evening, "Lady of the Lake," and a farce.

BUCKLEY'S SERENADERS, No. 539 BROADWAY.—This well-known company will perform to-night in the comic version of the "Elixir of Love"—discarding the unnecessary absurdity of burnt cork. During the past week the Hall has been redecorated for the Summer season.

GEO. CHRISTY & WOOD'S MINSTRELS, No. 472 BROADWAY.—An Ethiopian performance commences the entertainments to-night, followed by the amusing farce of the "Wandering Minstrel."

PERHAM'S ETHIOPIAN OPERA-HOUSE, No. 663 BROADWAY.—*An excellent programme is offered to-*night, ending with the cabalistic query, "Who's the Greatest Lady's Man?"

JNO. R. SMITH'S GRAND TOUR OF EUROPE.—Panoramas of this popular description interest a large class of our floating population, and are particularly attractive to the stay at homes. In consequence of the success which has attended the exhibition of this painting, the proprietor has wisely removed it to the large and handsome saloon of the Chinese Assembly Rooms, No. 539 Broadway.

Items.

☞ A lady of color has recently taken to herself the title of the "Black Siddons." Her name is WARD, and her readings from SHAKSPEARE have been favorably spoken of in the Philadelphia papers. The Sunday Mercury, of that city, thus describes her personal appearance:

With respect to the color of the lady, we were somewhat disappointed. We had thought that black meant black; and though such things as white black birds are sometimes spoken of, they have been generally considered fabulous. This is not the case, however, with white black women, as the Black Siddons can bear witness. She is almost white, and has hair much straighter than many white people's. Her features, too, are more of the Circassian than the African. We should think that she had very little of the African blood in her veins.

There is a rumor that the Metropolitan Theatre will shortly be opened under the management of Mr. H. C. JARRETT, of Baltimore, and that it will commence with an American play. We hope Mr. JARRETT will contrive some improvement for the singularly unsightly stage of this otherwise magnificent Theatre.

Mr. DAVENPORT, who has been playing at the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, during the past five weeks, had a complimentary benefit there on Friday. He will commence an engagement at Providence, R. I., on Monday evening.

Miss LAURA KEENE has arrived at San Francisco from Australia. During the coming Summer she will visit New-York and then return to Australia.

The PENR Opera Company is at the Boston Theatre. "Cinderella" was played during last week. This troupe will soon return to New-York.

Mdlle NAU and troupe gave a concert in Philadelphia on Friday evening, 20th. It was very successful.

A scene not set down in the bills was enacted at the Varieties Theatre, (St. Louis,) recently, during the performance of Mr. BUCHANAN in the play of "Rich and Ill." Mr. W. H. HAMBLIN playing Richmond. The combat between Richard and Richmond had been continued for a short time, when there was an evident bungling between the combatants, which was followed by Richmond throwing down his sword, and leaving the hump-backed tyrant master of the field. The audience was considerably taken down at the unexpected result of the battle, and Richard himself acted as if he would have preferred to have endured the death struggle, rather than to have gained a victory contrary to general expectation. Richmond, however, did not return to retrieve his honor, and the curtain was rung down. The cause of this shameful perversion of SHAKSPEARE was not fully explained. Mr. FIELD said they did not fight as they rehearsed. Mr. BUCHANAN said he had performed in England, Ireland and Scotland, and had never been involved in such a difficulty before. He told the trouble at Mr. HAMBLIN's feet. Mr. HAMBLIN then made his obeisance. He had not performed in England, Ireland and Scotland, but would recent ill-treatment from anybody; and he stated in substance that Mr. BUCHANAN was in fault. It is said that after this scene a duel was expected to follow the season in keeping the gentlemen apart, and that Mr. HAMBLIN expressed his willingness to settle the matter by the code of honor.

The American Theatre, New-Orleans, was destroyed by fire on the morning of the 20th inst., and an actor connected with the establishment, HENRICH LEPPE, lost his life in endeavoring to save his wardrobe. The house was owned by Mr. JAMES COLLES, of this City, and was leased to Mr. DENSMORE, who lost about $4,000 in wardrobe and properties.

The St. Charles Theatre, New-Orleans, terminated its season on the evening of the 19th inst. The Bolmon Theatre is also closed.

Miss MARRAH is at present in this City.

HADDEN WILLIAMS and his wife have been engaged for fifteen nights by Mr. BARRY of the new Boston theatre, at the conclusion of which they are to engage in this City at the Broadway Theatre.

Miss ELOISE BRIGGS is playing in Buffalo.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

SPRING AND SUMMER CLOTHING.
ALFRED HUNGER & CO.
No. 64 Broadway,
Are now exhibiting a large stock of Clothing suitable for the approaching season, which they
OFFER AT RETAIL AT LOW PRICES.
Also,
BOYS' CLOTHING OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
ONE PRICE FOR GOODS—NO DEVIATION.

CARPETINGS.—PETERSON & HUMPHREY, No. 347 Broadway, corner White-st., have just received from the late large auction sales a large assortment of carpeting, for which they will sell at the following low prices:
Rich velvet carpet, 75c to 1dr per yard.
Rich tapestry, 4s to 5s per yard.
Rich Brussels, 4s per yard.
Tapestry, 3s to 3s. per yard.
Ingrain, (Lowell make,) 3s.
And all other goods equally low.

INSTRUCTION VERSUS HUMBUG!—THIS WEEK and henceforth, no half price! No clap-trap!! No private lessons!!! Bookkeeping in all its branches and penmanship of every description are taught in an expeditious and superior manner by FOSTER & DIXON, No. 335 Broadway, (Appleton's Building.) Terms long established and no reduction.

SPRING HOSIERY AND UNDERGARMENTS.—
AT THE OLD STAND,
No. 161 Bowery.
Will be found the cheapest and best Goods!
Call and examine.
A. RANKIN & CO.

SUTPHEN & BREED, IMPORTERS MANUFACTURERS and Jobbers of WALL PAPER, at their new and spacious warehouse, 404 Broadway, are now receiving and will continue to receive, by various vessels as they pass through the ocean, the choicest and most CONVENIENT NOVELTIES which European skill can produce, in the shape of Paper Hangings, velvet and gold DECORATIVE WALL PAPERS. Those who are about to adorn the walls of their dwellings, either with the cheap, or medium, or costly, and ELABORATE PAPER HANGINGS, should be certain, half or whole, to call here and examine this every way rich and extensive stock. Prices shall be made LOW, and all contracts promptly and well be executed with the utmost promptness and artistic skill. Merchants and others, from the country, or from any part of the country, will find here one of the largest and most desirable stocks of American Goods ever exhibited in this market, at low prices and on liberal credit.

GREAT SALE OF FANCY GOODS AT H. S. ROGERS' Fancy Bazaar, owing to the great success he has met in the purchase of the vessel fire on the premises. The remainder of this immense stock, consisting of Jewelry, rosewood, papier mache work, fans, opera glasses, toilet boxes, ornaments, gentlemen's fancy articles, &c., &c., &c., shell combs, elegant statuary, perfumery, musical instruments, vases; Newman's celebrated water colors, together with the most choice selection of parlor ornaments and gems with an endless variety of other articles, suitable for gifts and ornaments of children; all will be sold without regard to cost, and will be an opportunity to our citizens to supply themselves with everything useful and beautiful at less than half of the usual prices. H. S. ROGERS' Fancy Bazaar, No. 385 Broadway.

"THE MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF THE MOST desperate consumptive cases arise from indigestion. All or the more or less, are troubled with the disease, symptoms, still as it is a general thing we do not think of it, and let it until something serious intervenes. We would, as a public matter, warn all our readers against the use of tonics, and at the same time recommend to their use Dr. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC, the great tonic and invigorator prepared by Dr. C. M. JACKSON, No. 120 Arch-st., Philadelphia. We have seen cures effected through its agency.—Saturday Evening Post.

For sale by Druggists and dealers everywhere.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION FIRE-PROOF Safes, with HALL'S Patent Powder-Proof Locks, are the best now manufactured, and are made at the Works of Messrs. Herring, Hall, and the World's Fair, New-York. The Jury, at the last World's Fair, awarded the only powder-proof lock that was tested at the Fair, and the only powder-proof lock that was put on exhibition, and now advertising as "Hall's Fire Locks." The subscriber and his agents are the only persons authorized to make and sell the genuine Hall's Powder-Proof Locks. ALBERT G. HERRING, Green Block, Nos. 125, 127 and 129 Water-st., New-York.

GREAT MUSIC AND PIANO-FORTE WAREHOUSE.—ELY & MUNGER, having taken possession of their new warehouse, No. 519 Broadway, (St. Nicholas Hotel,) are now offering the most extensive and desirable assortment of Pianos and Melodeons to be found in the City, consisting of celebrated Tyle Strings Double Octave Pianos, made by themselves. Also, A. W. LADD & CO's superior Pianos, modern Pianos, and Mess. CARHART & NEWMAN'S Melodeons. All of which we will sell at prices that defy competition.—ELY & MUNGER, No. 519 Broadway.
N. B.—Pianos to let.

GAS FIXTURES—GAS FIXTURES—WE OFFER AN assortment of Chandeliers that cannot be equaled, in different patterns of the newest and most beautiful designs. Buyers of us have the benefit of a variety
TWICE AS LARGE
as that of any other establishment in New-York, from which to make their selections.
OUR PRICES are a same, for the same goods that can be found elsewhere. W. J. T. DAILEY & CO.,
Marble Stores, Nos. 635 and 637 Broadway.

PIANOS.—T. GILBERT & CO'S CELEBRATED Molian Pianos, Horace Waters' modern improved Pianos, and those of a large number of other makers, comprising the largest and most desirable assortment in the City, for sale, or to hire, at prices which defy competition. Call and satisfy yourselves. Persons in the City receiving orders for Pianos will find it to their advantage to call.
HORACE WATERS, No. 333 Broadway.

RICH & CO'S SALAMANDER SAFES, WILDER'S PATENT, WITH DOUBLE-PROOF LOCKS, ARE THE BEST ROBBED.—Thirteen years in use, and never a dollar's worth of books or papers destroyed in one of them. They have been tested in Accidents from 1835 to date. These Safes are sealed by the celebrated Jas. Rich Locks, and for sale by SIBLEY & MARVIN, Nos. 146 and 148 Water-st., and the manufacturers, 265 Broadway.
Rich's patents.

EMBROIDERIES AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.—WE will open THIS MORNING an important stock of Rich Embroidered Robes, Dress Patterns, Collars, Sets, &c., &c., which we will sell at one-half their cost to manufacturers. Also, 200 pieces of Rich Lace Curtains from $6 to $20 per pair. We also offer the cheapest goods ever offered in the City.
R. H. LEADBEATER & CO.,
No. 347 Broadway, corner of Leonard-st.

GREAT BARGAINS IN FRENCH CHINA.—300 White China Dinner Sets, containing enough pieces to dine twelve persons, at $35; worth $45.
200 White China Dinner Sets, containing enough pieces to dine eighteen persons, at $37; worth $50.
200 White China Tea Sets, at $6.50; worth $9.50.
60th Based and richly decorated sets in the same proportion.
W. J. T. DAILEY & CO., Marble Stores,
Nos. 635 and 637 Broadway.

POPULAR TRADE IN DRY GOODS.—R. H. LEADBEATER & CO., No. 347 Broadway, are selling fine De La ness at 62½ per yard; Challi De Laines at 12½; Linens from 12½ to 25c.; Bleb Silks from 62½ to $1; Re ages from 12½ to 25c. Also, a large lot of Linen Sheetings, Linen Cloths, Towellings, Sheetings and Shirtings at 25 per cent under the usual prices. Ladies' best Kid Gloves 62½, worth 1s. Also, a large stock of Embroidery at half their value. Mourning Goods of every description.

INDISPUTABLE.—MANY A MAN HAS LOST HIS credit by wearing a bad hat. This calamity, however, never happens to those who wear KNOX'S Hats, because they are of a peculiar hue and finish, and always keep their shape. The genuine Knox Hats can be had at Knox's Hat Store, as he is the only person in the City who makes them. KNOX'S Hats may also be easily recognized themselves. You can buy the KNOX Hat at No. 128 Fulton-st., or at No. 502 Broadway.

SHAWLS, SHAWLS.—WE WILL OFFER THIS MORNING, some very large and superior Cashmere Shawls, which we have just received by the Steamer Alps, from auction, a large lot of Cashmere, Chenille Crape and Broche Shawls. R. H. LEADBEATER & CO.,
No. 347 Broadway, corner of Leonard-st.

ANTHONY J. BLEECKER, AUCTIONEER, IN ADDITION to his Real Estate business, the subscriber has established in his office a department, for the sale of Furniture. A competent person will be found at the store, for the reception of articles, who will give his attention to this branch of business. ANTHONY J. BLEECKER,
No. 7 Broad-st.

ONE MAN HAS THIS PARTICULAR FANCY, AND another that—but all men have a fancy for good, well served meal. This your cook will fix right if you will supply the kitchen with the capacious, convenient and economical Cooking Range, recently perfected by GOODWIN & COEY, of No. 386 Water-st., a out of Peck-slip.

NOS. 32 AND 34 JOHN STREET.

POINTS.—IF YOU WOULD COMBINE AND WIELD second the desirable four points, viz: Material, Workmanship and Price, that are necessary to your success in the sale of your clothing, call upon us, then purchase of DEVLIN & JESSUP, corner of John and Nassau-sts.

☞ O. U. A.—PUTNAM CHAPTER, No. 1.—The members of Putnam Chapter are hereby summoned to attend a special Meeting on WEDNESDAY EVENING, May 2, at 8 o'clock, as business of upper moment will be brought before them. J. K. HABLE, Chairman of the Chapter, pro tem.
B. C. DEAN Secretary pro tem.

TEN THOUSAND WHISKERS OR HEADS OF HAIR dyed by so many different customers will present a variety of colors, but not one that Ishmael CHEZADORE'S EXCELSIOR HAIR DYE alone counterfeits nature perfectly, cures it, and without injuring the hair. Manufactured, sold, and applied No. 6 Astor House.

DEFIANCE SALAMANDER SAFES.—ROBERT M. PATRICK is the sole manufacturer in the United States of the above celebrated safes, and F. G. COFFIN's improved double dovetail locks and combination bolts. Depot No. 108 Fulton-st., one door below Nassau-st.

NEW PIANOS LOWER THAN E

Utah—Salt Lake.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

I have just received dispatches from Lake-City. The mail from Utah arrived here yesterday. The weather about the Indian mass disposed to be friendly than they had been for several months. Indeed, they even affect disposition for some of their mischiefs, and in several instances have returned stolen horses and mules to their owners. I suppose they have been apprised of the preparations now in progress for their chastisement. The mail party experienced no serious difficulties in consequence of snows. In truth, there is much error prevailed among us in regard to snows in the vicinity of the Rocky Mountains. The fact is that snows are always heavier in New-England and New-York than anywhere between the Mississippi and the Pacific, along the same lines of latitude—and the snows which do fall are what is called dry snows, and present much less serious obstacles to travel than snows in the States. West of the Peak Pass they are never found upon an open plain exceeding four or five inches in depth. The great ridge of the Rocky Mountains separates every distinction of climate, as is evinced by a comparison of geological structure, and mineral and vegetable productions.

The mail brings nothing startling from the City of the Latter-Day Saints. The mass among these pious people are enjoying, in Asiatic ease, the luxury of tea or a green wine, and the Senator conform to the new order of things without outward murmuring. The Saints are concentrating a Railroad, upon which to transport the materials for the Great Temple. Gov. Young is the chief contractor. The difficulties with the Utahs seem to be adjusted. How long they will remain so with depend upon the waste and hoarding of their vigilant and enterprising band of plunderers, and the wrathfulness of the Saints. It is announced that supplies for the emigrants can be obtained at Utah City much cheaper than they can be transported by them. Depôts of them will be established at several points along the road west of the South Pass. A new route has been discovered and marked from Utah to San Francisco, which is said to be shorter than the old route by two hundred miles at least, and better supplied with water. Mercantile and speculating interests here are in prosperous. Indeed, every branch of industry is generously well rewarded.

From the Upper Missouri I have received some news. The several bands of the Sioux—of whom there are six—are altogether—are not as hostile as they were a month or two ago. They too have no doubt heard of the expedition now in process of organization. Their peaceful mien is no evidence of their friendliness. It is only evidence that they have shrewdness enough to avoid hostilities when they cannot profit by them. There is in truth but one way to keep peace in the Indian territories, and that into keep stationed there a sufficient force to flog them well when they deserve. The absence of such efficient force offers a temptation which the Indian cannot resist.

D.

ST. LOUIS, Thursday, April 19, 1855.

INTERESTING TO MEDICAL MEN.—A bill providing for the establishment of a Board of Medical Censors has lately been reported in the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania. The bill is designed to create a Board of Medical Censors, to be appointed by the Governor, and to receive salaries from the State, who are to have authority to examine before them for examination, all the physicians of the State, under penalty, for non-appearance, of "having no recourse in law for the collection of a bill rendered for surgical, medical or obstetrical services." Certificates of these examiners are to be signed physicians to the payment of a fee of $10, and good only for a year; on renewal or examination and renewal of certificate being called for by the bill, at a charge of $5.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

JAMES G. HARRIOTT'S
BROADWAY FAMILY SHOE EMPORIUM,
Nos. 385 Broadway and 44 Howard-st.

☞ Ladies', Misses', Boys' and Childrens' Shoes in every variety. Ladies' gaiters warranted, all of our own manufacture, from $2 75 to $2 25 per pair. Kid and morocco slippers and buskins from $1 to $1 50 per pair. Shoes of all sizes, slightly soiled, selling off VERY CHEAP.

☞ Fruit and Ornamental Trees and Plants.—Including everything necessary to the Garden, Greenhouse, Nursery, and Orchard, with all the recent introductions, at very low rates. Descriptive price Catalogues gratis. Carriage paid to New-York. Ornamental and other planting done in any period of the country. Address B. M. WATSON Old Colony Nurseries, Plymouth, Mass.

☞ The Russian Salve—25 Cents a Box.—A Boston remedy of 30 years standing—a sure and speedy cure for Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Sore Breasts, Sore Eyes, Sore Heads, Sore Lips, Chilblains, Corns, Bunions, Sore Feet, Sore Nipples, Sore Legs, Sore Backs, Sore Throat, Sore Lungs, Sore Bowels, Sore Piles

FOR SALE.

HENRY ISA, SALESMAN, PECARRE, BERNSTEIN & PHILLIPS, No. 81 Liberty-st., can present the following to the notice of their customers, with all the conveniences, in the city of Brooklyn, viz.: [illegible]

HOUSE FOR SALE AT FLUSHING, L. I.—This well finished house, in the village of Flushing, opposite Post-office, with stable, hen-house, and [illegible] Flushing Depot, 2½ miles from the house in 1 hour; 3 in each room, with water at hand; 2 in the kitchen, and 2 in the pantry; the parlors are heated from the kitchen; the chamber rooms are heated from the parlors; the house is 2 stories high, with a well of cistern water at the door; underground, and nearly at rate water; and a well of good water, with a windmill and [illegible] Overall the garden and grounds are level and are large for 6 miles of years. W. H. REEVE, Gardener, Orange County.

THE HOUSE AND GROUNDS OF REV. DR. COX, Lee-st Brooklyn, for sale.—The house is furnished with all the modern improvements, gas, furnace, hot and cold water, water-bath, &c. The ground, corner of Orange-st and Willow-st, measuring twenty lots, the most valuable in Brooklyn for purposes of business and residence. This property can be exchanged for other productive property. It will also be let for one year. For particulars, apply to H. H. REEVE, No. 7 Nassau-st.

FOR SALE OR TO LET AT YONKERS.—A delightfully located Italian villa, with three acres of ground, within a mile of the railroad and steamboat landings. The house contains ten rooms, and is well furnished. The grounds are laid out with choice fruit, shrubbery, &c. The place is a good estate, for a gentleman. For sale, apply to Dr. JAMES R. CHILTON, No. 32 Prince-st., or to THOS. GABILL, corner of Fulton and Grinnell-sts., Yonkers.

RENT FATHER OF NEW-YORK—$10 only will secure you a delightful homestead in the healthy village of Riverside, L. I., on the 20 of May, 1855. Fifty dollars and 1,000 building lots will be given to the same 500 purchasers; each purchaser will receive a deed for 2 building lots, 25 by 100 feet, or a farm of from 3 to 10 acres. Secure a country residence before another year, and make your family happy. A few shares left. Apply to CHAS. WOOD, No. 2 Broadway, where maps and pamphlets can be had free.

BROOKLYN LOTS FOR SALE.—Three lots in an improving neighborhood in the 15th Ward of Brooklyn, will be sold cheap, and on very accommodating terms. Apply to PECARRE, BERNSTEIN & PHILLIPS, No. 81 Liberty-st., near Nassau.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—FOR SALE—CARY'S PATENT ROTARY FIRE ENGINE PUMP.—The one that was on exhibition at the Crystal Palace. Will be sold cheap if applied for immediately. Apply at the Fire Mills foot of Bridge-st., Brooklyn, L. I.

HOUSES, &c. WANTED.

COUNTRY SEAT.—Wanted to purchase, in exchange for a desirably located dwelling in Brooklyn, a small country place of 5 to 12 acres, with neat, tasty cottage and suitable out-buildings, fruit trees, &c., on the same, in a healthy location, and distant not over 16 miles from the City, and of easy and frequent access. No Agent need apply. Address in writing, Country Seat, Office Lenox Insurance Co., No. 54 Wall-st.

BROADWAY PROPERTY WANTED TO PURCHASE OR LEASE.—A site or commodious office for the National Academy of Design, in Broadway, having a frontage of 25 feet, or more, in the neighborhood, between 8th and 14th sts. Apply to F. CUMMINGS, Vice President, at his residence, No. 126 8th-av.

WANTED TO RENT.—For two or three years, a Country Place, within 10 miles of the City, on a railroad route; four or five acres of land will be required, with a good house, and other conveniences. Address A. A., at the office of the Daily Times.

TO LET.

COTTAGE HOUSES TO LET AT RAVENSWOOD, L. I.—Two nearly new, and very neat Italian cottage houses, on plots 200 by 40 feet, situated on the turnpike, with garden plot 70 feet deep in front; access by steamboat Ravenswood, at Peck-slip, at 6, 1, 4, and 6 o'clock, time to view and return by same boat; distance from building, 2 minutes; from City, half an hour. Inquire on the premises, or at No. 102 Broadway, of JOHN H. WILLIAMS.

WORK-SHOPS TO LET.—Cheap, in the new building, No. 22 Duane-st., eighty feet from Chatham. Wide entry, easy access to any of the floors, hoist-wheel, with every convenience for manufacturing purposes; most light front and rear, also side lights. The whole or any part can be had by applying to DANIEL SWEENY, No. 66 Chatham-st.

HOUSES TO LET IN BROOKLYN.—One three-story brick, eleven rooms, Adelphi-st., $325; one gas-pipe, $325; modern improvements, $400; (stable, if desired, $200;) two three-story, Degraw-st., near Court, $450; frame cottage, Sixth, Willoughby-st., near City Hall, $450; three-story brick house, Sackett-st., near Hicks, $500 De Kalb-av., near Washington Park, $350; Harrison-st., near Pacific, $400; two-story brick, Hudson-av., near Fleet-st., $300 and $325; store and dwelling-house, brick, corner of Van Brunt and Pioneer-sts., $500; two story and basement frame cottage, Clinton-st., near Fulton-st., $270; cottage house, Cumberland-st., near Green-av., $200. For sale or to let, two three-story brick houses on Sackett-st., near Court, and contiguous to South or Wall-st. Ferries; price, $6,000; rent, $650.

Farms or city property for sale or exchange.

Money wanted on bond and mortgage, well secured on city property. COGSWELL & ANDERSON, General Auctioneers.

Agency Office, No. 9 Court-st., Mechanics' Exchange, Brooklyn.

HOUSES AND STORES TO LET.—Lower part of the store, corner of Grand and Ridge-sts., Williamsburg, between 4th and 5th-av. A desirable neighborhood and location. Rent very reasonable.

Also, a pretty cottage in Bedford-st., near Graham-av., 20 minutes' walk from Williamsburg Ferry. Rent $160.

Also, the upper part of a commodious new brick house, in Division-st., between 4th and 5th-sts. Apply on the premises, or to C. W. KELSEY, No. 124 Grand-st., Williamsburg, or to C. Z. FOND, No. 15 Spruce-st., New-York.

Also, a store to let, No. 203 5th-av., occupied for three years as a shoe store. Apply to C. Z. FOND, 15 Spruce-st.

Also, a first-class blacksmith shop and dwelling, in 7th-av., between 21st and 22d sts. Apply to J. MUNSON, corner 22d-st. and 7th-av., or to C. Z. FOND, No. 15 Spruce-st.

HOUSE TO LET OR FOR SALE.—A handsome brown stone front house in a new or fashionable neighborhood, on the north side of 32d-st., between 5th-av and Broadway. House is new, just finished, with all the modern improvements, 3 gas-pipes and water, in the kitchen and bath-room. The materials and finish are the best. Neighborhood is very good. 5th-av. car passes within 25 feet. Rent $1,000. Inquire on the premises, or of owner, 34 Wall-st.

HOUSE TO LET.—Four-story house, three rooms deep all the way up, No. 124 West 26th-st., between 5th and 6th-avs., with chandeliers. Has all the modern improvements. Rent $600. Apply to P. CALLAGHAN, Esq., No. 20 Nassau-st., or of FUGSLEY & RAYNOR, corner of 26th-st. and Broadway.

HOUSES TO LET ON STATEN ISLAND.—At New-Brighton and Clifton, several excellent houses, with gardens; some of them are furnished and have stables attached; within five and ten minutes' walk of steamboat landings. For cards of admission and full particulars, apply to ALBERT H. NICOLAY, No. 4 Broad-st.

HOUSE TO LET.—A 4-story brown stone front Bagnio basement house, No. 128 West 26th-st.; has all the modern improvements complete, and is in thorough order. The tenement will let the premises remarkably, as his family will not be at home in traveling. Apply to L. UPDERHILL, Nos. 4 and 6 John-st., or on the premises.

HOUSES AND LOTS TO LET LOW OR FOR SALE.—A double cottage house with four lots of ground on the north side of 30th-st., near 2d-av., with carriage house, stable, fruit, &c. Also, to let low, a Gothic cottage on the Hudson River, above Manhattanville. Apply to W. KIERS, or J. W. BUMBEY, No. 2 Nassau-st.

HOUSE TO LET.—Immediately, the 3d of May, the 3 first stories of a three-story brown stone house on north side of 32d-st., near 5th-av., each three stories and basement, below 4th, lower floor, 5th-av. Apply to ADRIAN GRAFFY, Office, No. 256 5th-av., near 28th-st.

HOUSE TO LET.—A neat 2-story and basement house, situated in E.-st., near Franklin-av., Green Point, L. I., within 5 minutes' walk of the ferry; 4 bedrooms, sleeping, &c.; one chimney-top, gas, water, &c. To a family that will give a reasonable rent, the premises will be let. R. H. ALLAIRE, or F. H. ALLAIRE, on the premises, Greenpoint.

HOUSES TO LET, RENTS GREATLY REDUCED.—At the houses of $1,000, $1,200 houses for $700, and others in similar ratio. Some of the cheapest houses in the City. Apply at the Union agency-office, No. 6 Broadway, room, corner of Wall-st. REYES & MOAGLAND.

HOUSES TO LET.—Three three-story houses in Hester-st., near Bowery, with all the modern improvements, to let for one year. Apply to HAMES BUCKLEY, No. 22 Broadway.

TO LET.

HOUSE TO LET.—Will let on acre of ground, in Flushing, near railroad depot, or on Bell's Ferry, on the road leading from Bell's ferry to Flushing, a dwelling house. The house is nearly finished, and will be ready for occupancy the first week in May. They are in the immediate vicinity of the new Union Club House, and every effort will be made to secure comfort and quiet. Apply as above.

PARTLY FURNISHED HOUSE AT CLIFTON, STATEN ISLAND, TO LET.—Within ten minutes' walk of Vanderbilt's Landing. The grounds are well arranged, and the house is well furnished. Inquire of F. S. HOWES, residing on the premises, or of Mr. CHESTER FLOWER, No. 11 Broadway, up stairs.

SECOND STORY TO LET.—Consisting of two parlors, two bedrooms, large closets and drawers, with fine front balcony and half of cellar of a general house in Union, between Grand and Banks sts., (next door to Smith's) the neighborhood is very desirable. Rent, $312. Inquire on the premises.

THE SECOND AND THIRD FLOORS.—Of a new three-story house, with all the modern improvements, will be let to a family. One lot will be sold at any time. No. 17 Gist-st., between Broadway and 8th-av. For further particulars, inquire of W. H. RAYNOR, corner Broadway and 26th-st.

ROOM TO LET.—The large room now occupied by the Rose and Lodge Bank, corner of John and William-sts., together with a large and well-lighted basement recently occupied by the Gold and Silver Exchange. Can be delivered on the 1st of May next. Inquire at the Bank.

TO DENTISTS AND PHYSICIANS.—The dwelling, No. 7 Gold-st., is now vacant. Three parlors, and elegant parlors; also the cellar, and fourth floor, or the whole house, if desired. No. 27 Rose-st.

LARGE CHAPEL OF THE UNIVERSITY TO LET.—For religious worship, from the 1st May next. Inquire of the Sexton.

OFFICES TO LET IN CHAMBERS-STREET.—A large front room, suitable for any light business, or for an office. Also, one or two small offices. Apply to VARANTWERP & JAMES, No. 112 Chambers-st.

OFFICE TO LET.—No. 320 Broadway, west side, near Walker-st. Inquire at No. 4 Maiden-lane. SMITH, YOUNG & CO.

CORNER STORE TO LET.—First floor and basement, No. 80 John-st., corner of Gold. Apply up stairs, as above.

STORE AND DWELLING TO LET OR LEASE IN BROOKLYN.—No. 41 Atlantic-st. The store is finished in the best manner, with marble, gas, &c., and which will be let separately if desired. Possession immediately. Apply to BENEDICT & COIT, corner of Pine and Nassau-sts., New-York, or at No. 69 Atlantic-st., Brooklyn.

STORES OR WAREROOMS TO LET.—In the Second story of Appleton's Building, corner of Leonard-st., a most spacious store on Broadway, suitable for every description of business, and the most desirable location to be found on Broadway. Apply to D. APPLETON & CO., Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway.

STORE TO LET.—The store, basement and general office of the large building, Nos. 26 and 28 Frankfort-st., will be warmed with steam, and steam power hoist-way, also, steam power supplied on reasonable terms. Apply to CHARLES JENKINS, No. 28 Frankfort-st.

STORE TO LET.—Immediately for sale, for season, that splendid store in brown stone house No. 250 6th-st., near 16th-st. Call and judge for yourselves as regards the location for almost any kind of business. A. DAVIS, No. 255 8th-av.

STORE, ROOMS AND BASEMENT TO LET OR SELL.—In a most desirable location, on Broadway, the second, third and fourth floors, at No. 224 Broadway. Apply to VAN DOORN, Sign Artist, on the premises.

STORE TO LET.—No. 25 Maiden-lane, lately occupied by J. H. Weyman & Co., well calculated for the clothing, jewelry or fancy business. Inquire of SMITH, YOUNG & CO.

STORE TO LET OR LEASE.—Corner of Broadway and Canal-st., admirably situated for any business that requires publicity. Inquire at No. 416 Broadway.

STEAM POWER WITH ROOM TO LET.—One large room, third floor, corner of Hester and Baxter-sts., well lighted on three sides, suitable for any manufacturing purpose. Inquire of DUDLEY & IRE, as above.

STEAM POWER.—With large or small rooms to let. Also the entire building, well lighted all around, at a low rent. Apply to J. & G. H. WALKER, Nos. 189 and 193 Centre, corner Hester-st.

STEAM POWER TO LET.—With rooms well lighted and very cheap. In a central location. Will let very low to a good tenant. Apply on the premises, No. 16 East 27th-st.

STEAM POWER TO LET.—And well-lighted rooms, in Cornelia, Elm and Walker-sts., at low rates, by Mr. GAUDU, No. 102 Walker-st.

STEAM POWER TO LET.—In light and airy rooms in a new building, in Cliff-st. Apply to J. C. HULL, & SON, No. 102 Cliff-st.

BOUNTY LANDS.

UNITED STATES BOUNTY LAND AGENCY.—We are now prepared to prosecute with the utmost promptness all Claims for Bounty Land, under the law of 1855, which gives ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY ACRES to all the officers of the Army and Navy, Soldiers, both Regulars and Volunteers, Sailors, Marines, Flotilla Men, and Marines, Waggon Masters, Teamsters, Indians and all persons who have served the United States in any of the Wars of the United States since the year 1790, and in the event of their death, to the Widows or minor children.

Time and money will be saved by promptly placing the claims in our hands. All the necessary blank forms will be furnished without charge.

N. P. COBB & Co., No. 23 Williams-st., New-York.

REFERENCE—Bank of the Commonwealth; Ohio Life Insurance & Trust Co.

SOLDIERS, SAILORS, TEAMSTERS.—Who Shave served in any war of the United States since 1790, or their widows or minor children—you are entitled to 160 acres of land. On application to us you can get it promptly. Original Bounty, Half-Bounty, Bounty for Extra Service, Warrants located on choice lands by a member of the firm West. BARKER & OSTRANDER, Agents, No. 193 Broadway.

U. S. PASSPORTS.—Indispensable to travelers, issued by J. T. JONES, Notary Public, No. 21 Warren-st. Naturalized citizens must produce their certificated. Also, BOUNTY LAND. Army and Navy Officers, Soldiers and sailors who served in any war since 1790, can obtain a warrant for 160 acres or land of J. T. J. N.

BOUNTY LAND.—All soldiers, teamsters and sailors, or the widows of those who served on sea or shore in any war since 1790, are entitled to 160 acres of bounty land, and can obtain the same of the agent, F. T. BEITE, No. 66 Wall-st., basement. No charge until the warrant is collected.

MILITARY BOUNTY LAND WARRANTS.—Obtained on application to BENEDICT WHEELER, First Entered on Record, U. S. Infantry, (war of 1812,) No. 116 Front-st., corner of Wall-st.

TO FARMERS AND OTHERS.

NEW AND IMPROVED FOUDRETTE.—The best and most powerful substitute for Farm-yard Manure, and unlike other fertilizers in the market, can be put in direct contact with the seed, thereby adding more efficient aid to the farmer. Supply of the Manure, with directions, &c., can be had gratis, on application to the undersigned. Price, $1 per ton. Orders may be left with Apply to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., (up stairs,) No. 34 Cortlandt-st.

Extract from a letter of Horace Greeley, dated

JANUARY 12, 1855.

"You know that it was quite long before you sent it, and that it soon after became dry and unmanagerable, so until Saturday, affording a very unfavorable opportunity for testing the value of Foudrette; yet I can testily that it did me good service, and you are welcome to refer to me in any way."

NEW-YORK AGRICULTURAL WAREHOUSE AND SEED STORE, occupying three large stores. The Proprietor has the largest, cheapest and most complete assortment of AGRICULTURAL AND HORTICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, FIELD and GARDEN SEEDS, in the U. S. PERUVIAN GUANO—with Government brand on each bag, and guaranteed to make 16 weeks' heavier; Sugar-plantation of Lima, Bone Dust, Poudrette, &c.

R. L. ALLEN, Nos. 189 and 191 Water-st.

CHARTER OAK GRAPE ROOTS FOR SALE.—At No. 7 John-st., where samples of the grapes can be seen. These grapes grow to the size of 14 inches in diameter; they are as sweet as the Isabella, and three weeks earlier; usually hardy, and will produce twenty pounds of grapes; not any other vine cultivated. Orders promptly attended to by JOHN B. JAMES, No. 7 John-st., N. Y.

HOTELS.

CEDAR HOUSE—YONKERS, WESTCHESTER COUNTY—BUCKLIN & DURENBURY, Proprietors.—The above house, occupying a central and healthy location in the village of Yonkers, 11 miles from the City of New-York, with which communication is had hourly by Hudson River Railroad and steamboats, will be completed, on and after May 1, by the undersigned, who will endeavor to make the admirably arranged hotel one of the most pleasant and agreeable in the country. Attached is an extensive Livery Stable, for those bringing their own establishments; Billiard Saloon, Lyceum, &c.

ROBERT L. BUCKLIN,
EDWARD A. DURENBURY.

N. B.—Dinner and Supper Parties liberally dealt with.

YONKERS, April 21, 1855.

SARATOGA SPRINGS.—The large private boarding house, known as WASHINGTON HALL, will be open for visitors at any time after the 1st of May.

GROCERIES & MILL STUFFS.

DEALERS, MILLS GRAHAM AND FAMILY FLOUR.—Meaning, Rye, Buckwheat, Cornmeal, Oatmeal, Pearl Barley, Rice, Flour, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Molasses, Vermicelli, Split Peas, Beans, Soap, Starch, Tobacco, Segars, Cheese, Cracker, &c., &c.; for sale by DREW & FRENCH, at Packers Depot, No. 35 Barclay-st.

FINANCIAL.

MESSRS. DUNCAN, SHERMAN & CO., Bankers, No. 52 William-st., New-York, issue CIRCULAR LETTERS OF CREDIT on the following Cities:

Alexandria	Gottenburg	Leipsic	Rome
Amsterdam	Genoa	Lisbon	Rotterdam
Antwerp	Geneva	Leghorn	Stockholm
Augsburg	Hamburg	Lyons	St. Petersburg
Berlin	Havre	Madrid	Turin
Bordeaux	Hague	Marseilles	Vienna
Bremen	Jersey	Milan	Venice
Brussels	Leipsic	Naples	Warsaw
Cologne	Leghorn	Palermo	Zurich
Copenhagen	Lisbon	Palermo	Zurich
Cadiz	Lyons	Palermo	Zurich
Cologne	Madrid	Palermo	Zurich
Cologne	Marseilles	Palermo	Zurich
Cologne	Milan	Palermo	Zurich
Cologne	Naples	Palermo	Zurich
Cologne	Palermo	Palermo	Zurich
Cologne	Palermo	Palermo	Zurich
Cologne	Palermo

AUCTION SALES.

SALE OF THE WESTERN HOTEL, AND THREE OTHER BUILDINGS, AT NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y.—On THURSDAY, May 3, at 12 o'clock, and sale to commence at 1 o'clock P. M., on THE GROUND.—These lots are located on the Railroad Square in the city limits or vicinity of Niagara Falls, being on the road to the Suspension Bridge, and commanding a fine view of the Falls and Rapids, and are eligibly adapted for sale, as now, or for building purposes, or for sale for a term of years, and connected by the Suspension Bridge with the river above the Falls, connecting the city in the U. S. with the Canadian Province, and only from 200 to 300 yards from the Falls, affording a rare chance for investment, will find at this sale many desirable opportunities, which will great trees, worthy the attention of persons the most fastidious, and capable of being made very valuable. Terms will be easy and made known on the day of sale, and other particulars, inquire of J. V. BLACKER, No. 3 Hanover-st., New-York, Trustee; Henry Gray, City of Paterson, at 8, 9 & 10 A. M., and 1 P. M., Hotel, 8 rods on Railroad, Monday, May 5, the sale will take place the next fair day.

REPEATED SALE OF TWELVE CHOICE PIERS, OF 1 TO 12 BULKHEAD-ST.—ANTHONY J. BLEECKER will sell at auction, on MONDAY, April 30, 1855, at 12 M., at the Merchants' Exchange, New-York, by order of the Supreme Court and the directors of the Washington Bridge Company, the following desirable property, viz.:

On Bulkhead and Washington-sts.—The property known as Nos. 128 and 130 Washington, situated on and next the south-west corner of Bulkhead and Washington-sts.

On Bulkhead-st.—Also, the property known as Nos. 126, 124, and 122 Bulkhead, south side, between Washington and Washington-sts.

On Bulkhead and Washington-sts.—Also, the 3 parcels of property known as Nos. 120, 122 and 124 Washington-st., and Nos. 127, 129, and 131 Washington-st., running through from street to street, being situated between Spring and Prince-sts.

On Bulkhead-st.—Also, the block bound and set of ground, known as No. 12 Bulkhead-st., west side, between Prince and Spring-sts., and the 2 parcels of ground on the rear.

The maps, terms, further particulars, apply to the Auctioneer, No. 1 Bulkhead-st., or to CHARLES EDWARDS, Referee, No. 97 Chambers-st., over Chatham Bank.

A. J. BLEECKER, Auctioneer.

LARGE SALE OF REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.—Mr. Bleecker that Mr. BLEECKER will sell at public auction THIS DAY, at 12 o'clock, at the Merchants' Exchange, New-York, by order of the Supreme Court and under the direction of Charles Edwards, Referee, the following valuable property, viz.: No. 60, 162 and 164 Lawrence-st.; Nos. 158, 160 and 162 Prince-st.; Nos. 157, 159 and 161 Lawrence-st.; Nos. 160, 162 and 164 Prince-st.; the house and lot No. 166 Lawrence-st.; the house and lot No. 8 West Bleecker-st.; the house and lot No. 27 English-st.; the house and lot No. 31 West 26th-st.; the five-story property No. 124 Pearl-st., and next the corner of Beekman-st., running through from street to street, 100 feet 6 inches deep, and 25 feet 6 inches in front; the Country Residence, on Gowanus, opposite Fort Hamilton, with 4 lots of land, nicely laid out and inclosed with picket fence, on the south side of the road, near Broadway. Also 7 lots adjoining, being on the southeast corner of 11th-av. and 20th-st., which will be given on the day of sale, or at any time previous, on lease and mortgage.

CHARLES E. MILLER & CO., Auctioneers.

EXTENSIVE SALE OF FARM AND COUNTRY SEAT OF THE LATE EMINENT SCULPTOR THOMAS CRAWFORD, Property of the Assot Estate, consisting of 15 acres and 1 rood, situated in Clarkstown, Rockland County, N. Y., in connection with the sale of the 15th of April last having been postponed until the 1st of May, the valuable property will be sold THIS DAY, at the office of the Trustee, Wednesday, May 2, for account of whom it may concern, on the premises, at 12 o'clock, or at any time previous, by order of the Trustee, No. 128 Broadway. TO-DAY.

LYDIA ASHUR, Executrix.

ADRIAN H. MULLER, Auctioneer.

NO. 48 CLINTON-PLACE, CORNER OF MACDOUGAL-STREET.—ADRIAN H. MULLER will sell at auction at the Merchants' Exchange, on MONDAY, May 1, at 12 o'clock, the three-story and basement brick house No. 48 Clinton-place, corner of Macdougal-st., 20 feet 8 inches front, 31 feet in the rear, on the alley, with new-story mahogany planos. The lot is a leasehold from the Reform estate, having one year to run from the 1st of May, at a ground rent of $150, with privilege of renewal for 21 years, at 5 per cent. on valuation. Possession can be given immediately.

CHARLES E. MILLER, Auctioneer.

CHARLES E. MILLER & CO. WILL SELL, at the Merchants' Exchange, on THURSDAY, May 3, at 12 o'clock, 1,00 East 17th-st., between avenues A and Lewis-st., 1st floor front, 21 feet of ground, very nearly on the land and house, NEW YORK CENTRAL LOTS, 24x100 each, on Atlantic and Wyona-ave., being 100 feet on Wyona and 100 feet on Atlantic-ay. The corner lot and one adjoining will be sold subject to a mortgage of $300. For full particulars apply at Office Auctioneers, No. 128 Broadway.

AUCTION SALE OF CROCKERY, GLASS AND CHINA WARE, TO-MORROW (Tuesday), at 10 o'clock, at No. 118 Fourth-st., near Bowery, by order of Mr. Frank Frank, assignee, 107 crates white granite, light blue, gaudery, CC dyes and edged ware, a full assortment of glass, china colored figure China in sets, of Paris, Limoges, Dresden, Worcester, Nantgarw, Coalport, Leeds, Porter figures, toys, &c.; Sevres French China tea sets, and many other lots, wares, &c. Also, 1 cask Bristol ale, 1 cask ice tongs and waters; 100 heavy shutes. Also, the stock of a retailer declining business.

JOHN L. VANDEWATER, Auctioneer.

J. L. VANDEWATER—Will sell at TUESDAY, May 1, at 10 o'clock, at the salerooms, No. 19 Maiden-lane, corner of Broadway and Nassau-st., a high standard pianoforte, by Stoddart, in rosewood case, with a variety of other 1st class pianos, some of the best manufacture, with a variety of other 1st class, all warranted true to name, and sold with great care, without reserve to cash, by D. Ball, personally.

HENRY H. LEEDS, Auctioneer.

BLEECKER & CO.—TUESDAY, at 12 o'clock, at No. 128 Water-st., and Friday, at 10½ o'clock, corner of 8th-av. and 42d-st., all the splendid furniture contained in gold brocade, satin damask, and other elegant drawing rooms, including the most and complete assortment of valuable cabinet furniture of the most costly description, viz.: Velvet carpets, splendid mirrors of every kind, parlor and bedroom suites, in rosewood, black walnut and mahogany; silk damask, lace and other curtains, cornices, tables, chairs, dressers and bedding, costly china and glass ware, wines, &c. The above will be sold without reserve, and found to be one of the most elegantly-furnished hotels in the City. Can be examined two days before the sale.

ADRIAN H. MULLER, Auctioneer.

COTTAGE AND ELEVEN LOTS OF LAND ON EIGHTY-EIGHTH-STREET AND BLEYEKER-AVENUE.—ADRIAN H. MULLER will sell at auction, MONDAY, April 30, 1855, at 12 o'clock, at the Merchants' Exchange, the convenient and well arranged two-story cottage, with marble mantels and grates, and all the modern improvements, and 11 lots of land, 25 feet front each, on the south side of 88th-st., 100 feet deep, with a depth of 100 feet in the rear; the Cottage, with 4 lots, and 7 lots adjoining, being on the southeast corner of 11th-av. and 88th-st., will be given on the day of sale, or at any time previous, on lease and mortgage.

CHARLES E. MILLER & CO., Auctioneers.

EXTENSIVE SALE OF FARM AND COUNTRY SEAT OF THE LATE EMINENT SCULPTOR THOMAS CRAWFORD, Property of the Assot Estate, consisting of 15 acres and 1 rood, situated in Clarkstown, Rockland County, N. Y., in connection with the sale of the 15th of April last having been postponed until the 1st of May, the valuable property will be sold THIS DAY, at the office of the Trustee, Wednesday, May 2, for account of whom it may concern, on the premises, at 12 o'clock, or at any time previous, by order of the Trustee, No. 128 Broadway. TO-DAY.

LYDIA ASHUR, Executrix.

ADRIAN H. MULLER, Auctioneer.

NO. 48 CLINTON-PLACE, CORNER OF MACDOUGAL-STREET.—ADRIAN H. MULLER will sell at auction at the Merchants' Exchange, on MONDAY, May 1, at 12 o'clock, the three-story and basement brick house No. 48 Clinton-place, corner of Macdougal-st., 20 feet 8 inches front, 31 feet in the rear, on the alley, with new-story mahogany planos. The lot is a leasehold from the Reform estate, having one year to run from the 1st of May, at a ground rent of $150, with privilege of renewal for 21 years, at 5 per cent. on valuation. Possession can be given immediately.

CHARLES E. MILLER, Auctioneer.

CHARLES E. MILLER & CO. WILL SELL, at the Merchants' Exchange, on THURSDAY, May 3, at 12 o'clock, 1,00 East 17th-st., between avenues A and Lewis-st., 1st floor front, 21 feet of ground, very nearly on the land and house, NEW YORK CENTRAL LOTS, 24x100 each, on Atlantic and Wyona-ave., being 100 feet on Wyona and 100 feet on Atlantic-ay. The corner lot and one adjoining will be sold subject to a mortgage of $300. For full particulars apply at Office Auctioneers, No. 128 Broadway.

AUCTION SALE OF CROCKERY, GLASS AND CHINA WARE, TO-MORROW (Tuesday), at 10 o'clock, at No. 118 Fourth-st., near Bowery, by order of Mr. Frank Frank, assignee, 107 crates white granite, light blue, gaudery, CC dyes and edged ware, a full assortment of glass, china colored figure China in sets, of Paris, Limoges, Dresden, Worcester, Nantgarw, Coalport, Leeds, Porter figures, toys, &c.; Sevres French China tea sets, and many other lots, wares, &c. Also, 1 cask Bristol ale, 1 cask ice tongs and waters; 100 heavy shutes. Also, the stock of a retailer declining business.

JOHN L. VANDEWATER, Auctioneer.

J. L. VANDEWATER—Will sell at TUESDAY, May 1, at 10 o'clock, at the salerooms, No. 19 Maiden-lane, corner of Broadway and Nassau-st., a high standard pianoforte, by Stoddart, in rosewood case, with a variety of other 1st class pianos, some of the best manufacture, Queen of Prussia, Gomez, Gomez, elegant case, with a variety of other 1st class, all warranted true to name, and sold with great care, without reserve to cash, by D. Ball, personally.

HENRY H. LEEDS, Auctioneer.

BLEECKER & CO.—TUESDAY, April 30, at 10 o'clock, at

New-York Daily Times.

NEW-YORK CITY.

City Mortality.

[The Report this week is imperfect. The returns from Wards 2 to 5 inclusive have not been received at this date.] The following is the Weekly Report of Deaths to the Health Office of the City and County of New-York, from the 23d day of April, 1855 to the 29th day of April, 1855: Men, 82; Women, 66; Boys, 32; Girls, 32. Total, 254. Adults, 148; Children, 106; Native, 107; Foreigners, 104; Colored Persons, 13.

DISEASES.

Apoplexy	1	Congestion of the brain	1	Marasmus	8
Bilious fever	1	Croup, 24 hours	1	Mortification	1
Bronchitis	1	Congestion lungs	1	Obstruction of bowels	1
Cancer	1	Consumption	28	Old age	1
Cholera infantum	1	Convulsions	1	Palsy	1
Cholera morbus	1	Dropsy	1	Paralysis, 24 hrs.	1
Consumption	1	Dropsy, chest	1	Pleurisy	1
Cancer, face, gland	1	Dropsy, ovarian	1	Pneumonia	1
Cancer, breast	1	Dropsy, scrotum	1	Rheumatism	1
Cancer, uterus	1	Dropsy, testicle	1	Scald	1
Cholera infantum	1	Dropsy, ovarian	1	Scarlet fever	1
Cholera morbus	1	Dropsy, chest	1	Scrofula, of the liver	1
Cholera infantum	1	Dropsy, scrotum	1	Stillborn	14
Cholera morbus	1	Dropsy, testicle	1	Suicide, by drowning	1
Cholera infantum	1	Dropsy, ovarian	1	Suicide, by poison	1
Cholera morbus	1	Dropsy, chest	1	Suicide, by shot	1
Cholera infantum	1	Dropsy, scrotum	1	Suicide, by cutting throat	1
Cholera morbus	1	Dropsy, testicle	1	Teething	1
Cholera infantum	1	Dropsy, ovarian	1	Tumor, uterus	1
Cholera morbus	1	Dropsy, chest	1	Ulceration of the mesentery	1
Cholera infantum	1	Dropsy, scrotum	1	Unknown	1
Cholera morbus	1	Dropsy, testicle	1	Worms	1
Cholera infantum	1	Dropsy, ovarian	1	Total	254

HOSPITALS—DISEASES CLASSED.

Death and nerves	2	Stillborn, and prem. birth	14
Fever, typhoid, remittent	1	Ulceration of the mesentery	1
Fever, typhoid, inflammatory	1	Unknown cause, and sudden death	1
Old age	1	Urinary organs	1
Total	5	Total	17

Of which 9 were from violent causes.

Weeks.		Weeks.		Weeks.
Under 1	46	XV.	1	XVII.	1
I.	1	XVI.	1	XVIII.	1
II.	1	XX.	1	XIX.	1
III.	1	XXI.	1	XXI.	1
IV.	1	XXII.	1	XXII.	1
V.	1	XXIII.	1	XXIII.	1
VI.	1	XXIV.	1	XXIV.	1
VII.	1	XXV.	1	XXV.	1
VIII.	1	XXVI.	1	XXVI.	1
				Total	254

AGES—Under 1 year, 109; 1 to 2 years, 49; 2 to 5 years, 31; 5 to 10 years, 12; 10 to 15 years, 9; 15 to 20 years, 6; 20 to 30 years, 18; 30 to 40 years, 17; 40 to 50 years, 19; 50 to 60 years, 19; 60 to 70 years, 11; 70 to 80 years, 11; 80 to 90 years, 5; 90 to 100 years, 2.—Total, 254.

NATIVITIES.—Africa, 1; England, 2; France, 1; Germany, 24; Ireland, 90; Portugal, 1; Prussia, 1; Scotland, 5; United States, 126; Wales, 1.—Total, 254.

PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.—Bellevue Hospital, 4; City Hospital, 4; Colored Home Hospital, 1; Colored Orphan Asylum, 3; Lunatic Asylum, Blackwell's Island, 1; St. Vincent's Hospital, 1; Ward's Island Emigrant Hospital, 1.—Total, 16.

THOMAS E. DOWNING, City Inspector.

CITY INSPECTOR'S OFFICE, New-York, April 28, 1855.

The Recent Escape of United States Prisoners—Official Enquiry—Curious Testimony Before Commissioner Bridgham.

About two weeks ago, some men, who were under commitment by authority of the United States Government, and two of the Sheriff's prisoners, effected their escape from the old Debtors' Prison, in Eldridge-street, by sawing off the iron window bars. Among the Government prisoners there was one who is a fugitive from the authorities in Wisconsin, where he stands charged with robbing various Post-offices in that State. The other six men were held on charges of a serious nature, and as yet, no trace of them has been obtained by the Police or Marshals. The matter was laid before Hon. Judge BEDDELL, of the United States Circuit Court, who directed the United States District Attorney to institute an official inquiry in conjunction with United States Marshal HULETER, to ascertain the real cause of the villanious flight.

Since that period, testimony has been taken before Commissioner BRIDGHAM, which reveals the curious fact that the heavy iron bars were softened to such a degree by the use of a chemical preparation, that they could be cut or sawed as if they had been lead. It is quite certain that a Hungarian chemist, who was confined there for debt, manufactured the article, and he was among the party who fled. Annexed is the testimony taken. In the course of a few days Mr. McKEON, the Government prosecuting officer, will make a report of the investigation to the Judge.

THE TESTIMONY.

United States of America, State of New-York, City and County of New-York, ss. Southern District of New-York.—SIDNEY J. SMITH, being duly sworn, says that he is the keeper of one of the prisons in the City and County of New-York, which prison belongs to the corporation of New-York. It is the prison used by the Sheriff of the City and County of New-York for the detention of persons committed to his charge. This prison has been used as such for fourteen years, and upwards of two years I have been the keeper. On the 11th inst. I had under my charge the following persons, committed under the authority of the United States Government:

Henry Kent, George Maher, and John Lawton, charged with being engaged in a revolt on board of a vessel in the harbor of New-York.

Adolph Abbe, a fugitive from the authorities of Wisconsin, where he was charged with breaking open a letter.

William Lancaster, charged with an assault with a dangerous weapon.

William Benton, arrested and indicted for passing counterfeit money.

John Williams, arrested for an assault with a dangerous weapon on ship-board.

Edward Whitfield, charged with being concerned in a riot.

Ferdinand Hahn, charged with taking a letter from the United States Post-Office.

Adolphus Cole, charged with an assault with a deadly weapon.

After the following persons, who were detained as witnesses by order of the United States Court: John Hall, Robert Miles, John Williams, John Schaw, ——— Bennett.

Deponent further says, that between the hours of 12 o'clock M. on the 11th inst., and 5 o'clock of the 12th inst., the following named persons, namely, Henry Kent, Joseph Kent, George Maher, John Lawton, Adolph Abbe, William Lancaster, William Benton and John Williams, and the witnesses further says, that the above-named persons were confined on the second story of the prison; that on the night of the 11th, about half-past 11 o'clock, the deponent went to inspect the prison, and the persons last above named were then in the prison, and the prisoners placed in custody of this deponent by the Sheriff were also in the prison; on the morning of the 12th inst., about half-past 5 o'clock I was called and told that the said prisoners had escaped; on going into the prison, I found the iron bars of the window, which were half an inch thick, had been cut, and a space made large enough to admit the body of a man; this opening must have been made by the prisoners herein named. The deponent believes the sawing was done by a prisoner named John C. Copp, who was committed by the Sheriff. This Copp was a Hungarian chemist, who was arrested for debt. Deponent believes that a solution was applied to the iron bars, so as to facilitate the sawing of the same; a small vial was subsequently found on the floor, near the iron bars of the window, the contents of which deponent has not examined with such care as to give the exact name. The solution allowed to be not to be poisonous to touch or swallow, or substance free.

Henry W. Smith sworn, says: I am the son of the last witness; I was the assistant in the Eldridge-street Prison; I have heard the above deposition read, and corroborate the same; it daily and thirty states all the circumstances connected with the escape of the prisoners, who were committed under the authority of the United States; there were in all seven twenty prisoners confined in the jail on the night of the 11th inst.

Ferdinand Hahn sworn, says: I was a prisoner under the authority of the United States in the prison kept by Henry J. Smith on the 11th inst.; on the afternoon of that date I saw Benton and another prisoner engaged in conversation, under circumstances that attracted my attention; I also saw a prisoner had (Copp) a small vial in a secret way; on the night of the 11th inst. one of the prisoners came into the room where I was, and said Hamilton made an answer, but I did not hear what he said; I was not asleep but I remained perfectly quiet; to the best of my belief I heard the prisoners make a noise which was standing in my room; I was awakened early in the morning by Jesse Williams, who told me all the prisoners in the next room had escaped.

The Hotel Business.—Mr. Howard on the American and European System.

D. D. HOWARD, Esq., of Hotel note, thinks that the establishment of an American system of hotel keeping in a foreign city is impracticable. Indeed so much it is no longer entirely problematic—depending on it does, a uniformly full house and a cheap market. Probably by the amalgamation of the European and American systems, will come before the opinion of all our citizens.

From the fame that Mr. HOWARD stands on, we present the following, which is interesting:

In Paris, and throughout Continental Europe indeed, at all the leading hotels, there is a table d'hote for dinner only. All other meals are served à la carte, and charged for accordingly; and the table d'hote dinner is charged for at a fixed price, varying according to the quality of the entertainment provided. The system is very popular. The expert persons are to be sought for, and the Stock Exchange, to the constant observation of the thoroughfare, he addressed a letter to the Board of Brokers on Saturday morning, calling their attention to the circumstance, and requesting their members to meet elsewhere than in crowded thoroughfares like William-street. The reading of the letter gave rise to some discussion among the members of the Board, which terminated in directing the Chairman to acknowledge the receipt of the Mayor's communication with all respect, but to inform him that the members of the Board were neither offending parties (those were out with exceptions) who make their market exclusively in the street, and over these the Board had no control.

A New Insurance Patrol.

The association of insurance companies have just organized an insurance patrol for the 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th fire districts. It is to be composed of ten men and two captains, and will commence duty on Monday night next, 30th inst. The headquarters of the patrol will be in the well-tower in Marion-street, between Spring and Prince. The members of the patrol have been selected from the corps of firemen of this city. Messrs. WATERBURY and CROSBIE are to be the captains.

Death from an Overdose of Laudanum.

A colored woman named Charlotte Fraser, aged seventeen years, died at her boarding-house, No. 44 Orange-street, on Saturday, from the effects of an overdose of laudanum. She was a rum and opium bibber, and her death was caused accidentally.

A woman named Bridget Sandford, of the Sixth Ward, was found dead in her bed on Saturday morning, by her husband, in the house of her father, in Mott-st. Coroner HOGAN was notified of the death, and he will hold an inquest on the body.

COURT CALENDAR—MONDAY.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.—Nos. 53, 60, 74, 79 to 78, 81 to 88.

[Advertisement.]

TWO CERTIFICATES, BRIGHT, UNHOBBLING BRANDRETH'S PILLS.—From Mr. NEWTON, an extensive lumber dealer of the village of Sing Sing:

DR. BRANDRETH—Sir: I am a painter by trade, and have frequently been troubled with slight attacks of cholic, arising from contact with lead in the forms it is used in my business. My eyes have also been made somewhat weak from the same cause. Your pills have been my only medicine, and they have never failed to restore my health. For all diseases incident to a painter, I think Brandreth's Pills a certain remedy. My journeymen, by my advice, always take them whenever their arms become paralized, or their bowels constipated, and they have been cured by a few doses. Painters will find your pills invaluable. Yours, &c.,

SING SING, March 23, 1855. DENNIS NEWTON.

CURE OF PIMPLES IN THE FACE OF THREE YEARS' CONTINUANCE.

DR. BRANDRETH—Dear Sir: For some considerable period I have been troubled with an impurity or acridity of the blood, which seemed to be past cure. My face in consequence, presented an unseemly collection of pimples; I was abstemious, and seldom tasted any beverage stronger than water; and yet with all my care as to my diet, my blood got no better, and my appearance continued the same. My face all the time seemed as if it were held near a fire; it seemed as if something was on it that might be brushed off. It was very annoying, and caused me much anxiety, not because it interfered with my personal appearance, which it did, but because it more or less affected my health, which was beginning to break down. I took very little medicine; but when the above state of things had continued about the same for three years, I was induced to use your pills. I took them in all about one month—every day, or nearly so—taking no higher dose than five pills, and sometimes only one. I think altogether I did not use over four boxes. They cured me completely. My face is free from all pimples and inflammation, and my complexion perfectly clear. Gratitude has induced me to render you this account, which you may publish.

I am, with respect, yours, &c. N. H. BAKER.

SING SING, March 30, 1855.

The principle of disease, like that of the principle of life, are alike incomprehensible. We only are able to point out what will weaken the one or give strength to the other. The value of the BRANDRETH Pills depend upon their wonderful power in strengthening the principle of life, and weakening the principle of disease, and finally expelling it from the body. Let us consider the subject carefully. Would disease affect us if our blood were pure? Then, in proportion as BRANDRETH'S Pills purify the blood, they tend to restore health. The very action upon the system which BRANDRETH'S Pills possess convinces all who use them that they remove only the impure humors—for if they took any of the healthy fluids from the body, it would be weakened. But the contrary is the case. The body becomes stronger every day from the use of the BRANDRETH Pills, as is known by the experience of tens of thousands of our citizens.

Where is the man of sense whose mind is unprejudiced, who, from the infectious smell after death, would not say, would this body have been benefit of life had purification been prevented? Are men born but to be sick? Shall the lower animals live their full extent and man only prematurely perish? Let us follow nature, let us cleanse the blood from impurities, and we shall live to the full extent of the oil in our lamp of life.

But continued purging will wear out the body, some otherwise sensible people affirm, that it is the wearing out the bottle by dint of rubbing! Does then rust preserve metallic substances? It would be admitting that impurities in the blood preserve it in a healthy condition. We know better. We know that the result of an impure state of the blood is to occasion such rheums, erysipelas, weakness, general debility, pains in the breast, back and side; also fits, palsy, dyspepsia, in fact wherever the impurity finds a weak portion of the body, there it settles, and there it produces pain and disease.

I have known many persons purged twenty and thirty days in succession, and the result was always satisfactory. In every first box, the most remarkable improvement took place. I remember one person who I knew had worms, from his peculiar symptoms; he persevered for forty days; every day for forty days no appearance of worms was seen, but after that time he voided great numbers, some of extraordinary size. What effects would have resulted from three or four doses of the cathartics—what would become of him if he had not been purged to a radical cure! It would be impossible to show the benefit to be derived from a perseverance with the BRANDRETH'S Pills in these limits. They must be used to be sufficiently appreciated.

BRANDRETH'S Pills are sold at Dr. BRANDRETH'S principal office, No. 25 Canal-street, BRANDRETH'S Building, at 25 cents per box, with full directions; at BURNHAM'S bookstores, No. 296 Bowery, and at No. 241 Hudson-street; also of L. D. D. WRIGHT, No. 60 Hudson-street, corner of Lewis; of JOSEPH KEEN, No. 313 Broadway, and of T. W. DYOTT & SONS, Philadelphia.

[Advertisement.]

SUMMER UNDER-GARMENTS.—The subscriber invites special attention to an entirely new stock of his well-known and superior

ZEPHYR MERINO UNDER-GARMENTS,

For ladies, gentlemen and children. No other garment as yet introduced to the notice of the public is at all comparable to this light, soft, elastic and durable fabric. To the invalid they are health; to the delicate constitution, protection; to the strong man, safety; to all, health and comfort. Dr. Valentine Mott's commendation is, "They are admirably adapted for invalids, to prevent them, during the hot season, from feeling the sudden changes of our variable climate."

JAMES E. RAY,

Importer and Manufacturer of Under-Garments and Hosiery, No. 156 Bowery, near Grand-street.

[Advertisement.]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Why is it that Professor HOLLOWAY has been prosecuted to most of the potentates of Europe? Because the public is not deceived in the intrinsic worth of these famous medicines. Almost any case of asthma, or settled cold on the chest, is soon cured by rubbing in plenty of Ointment and using the Pills. Sold at the manufacturer's, 80 Maiden-lane, New-York, and 244 Strand, London, and by all druggists at 25 cents, 62½ cents, and $1 per pot or box.

[Advertisement.]

PHOTOGRAPHIC PORTRAITS.—Life and Cabinet sizes in oil and pastel. Miniature sizes, superior to the finest ivory painting; uncolored photographs equaled by no other establishment in the world. Perfect likenesses taken in any style or size from daguerreotypes of deceased persons. Life size oil paintings on canvas by this process at one sitting, taken only by

J. GURNEY & C. D. FREDERICKS,
No. 45 Rue Bonne de Bonquet, Paris, and
No. 349 Broadway, New-York.

[Advertisement.]

☞ The cook's assistant, the housekeeper's friend, the epicure's delight, and the prudent man's profit, is GOODWIN & CORT'S Improved Range; cooking every meal promptly, neatly, nicely, and with a saving of fuel unprecedented in the annals of kitchen expense. GOODWIN & CORT,

Designers, Manufacturers and Dealers in Ranges, Stoves, &c., No. 206 Water-street, corner of Peck-slip

[Advertisement.]

SHEETINGS, SHIRTINGS, TABLE LINENS.—G. S. WILLIAMS & Co., No. 360 Greenwich-st., near Murray, are offering great inducements to ladies in want of the above goods. By examining their stock before purchasing elsewhere, they will at once see the advantage in paying at a house where expenses and profits are small in comparison with Broadway and other large establishments.

[Advertisement.]

PLAIN AND DECORATIVE PAPER-HANGINGS.—PRATT & HAMMERSLEY, Manufacturers and Importers, No. 560 Broadway, between Leonard and Franklin-sts., invite attention to their extensive stock, which is unsurpassed by any in this country. Faithful and accomplished workmen sent to any part of the City or country, at short notice, and their work warranted.

[Advertisement.]

TEAS.—The best assortment of Fine Teas will be found at the Canton Tea Company's newly erected and elegant store, No. 125 Chatham-street, (between Pearl and Roosevelt-streets,) the oldest Tea establishment in the City. We assure our readers they can do better here than elsewhere, either at wholesale or retail.

[Advertisement.]

GAS, GAS.—New styles of gas fixtures for the spring trade, of both modern and antique designs, just out. Wholesale buyers are particularly invited to call at the Great Manufacturing Depôt of ANDREW WARNER & Co., No. 542 Broadway. Also, the best portable gas works for country dwellings, churches and factories in the country.

[Advertisement.]

☞ REMINTON'S Drug Stores are now only at No. 10 Astor House, corner of Broadway and No. 417 Broadway, corner of Canal-street, where all medicines are prepared with the same care as during the life of the late Wm. L. REMINGTON, father of the present proprietor.

[Advertisement.]

BLAKE'S PATENT FIRE-PROOF PAINT, No. 119 Pearl-st.—See under head of Paints.

LONG ISLAND.

Mortality in Brooklyn.

Seventy-seven deaths are reported to the Health Office of Brooklyn, as having occurred during the week ending April 28, from the following:

DISEASES.—Apoplexy, atrophy, bronchitis, carbuncle, congestion of the lungs, cyanie, debility, delirium tremens, drop, fever, typhoid fever, heart disease, whooping cough, inflammation of the heart, inflammation of the kidneys, intemperance, old age, palsy, premature birth—10—one each. Congestion of the brain, dropsy in the chest, dysentery, inflammation of the brain, inflammation of the bowels, measles, stillborn, teething—3—two each. Convulsions, scarlet fever, unknown—3—three each. Croup 4, inflammation of the lungs 6, marasmus 7, consumption and dropsy in the head, 8 each.

Males 67, females 40; adults 36, minors 51. Total, 77.

St. Mary's—Star of the Sea.

This splendid edifice, recently erected, principally through the personal influence of Bishop BACON, at the corner of Court and Luquer-streets, Brooklyn,—a description of which appeared in the columns of this paper a few days since,—was yesterday morning dedicated to the worship of God by the usual observances on such occasions by the Roman Catholic Church. The service was very impressive, and was witnessed by as many persons as could possibly obtain admittance inside of the building. The dedicatory exercises were conducted by Right Rev. Bishop BACON. Most Rev. Archbishop HUGHES delivered the sermon.

☞ The Firemen of the Eastern District of Brooklyn meet this evening to elect Assistant Engineers.

NEW-JERSEY.

HOBOKEN CITY.

Then What Will They Do?

We are assured upon authority of the very best quality, that Hoboken City will not, as we had feared, be allowed to become the resort of New-Yorkers for the purpose of liquor selling and—&c. Our authority assures us that no licenses have been applied for or granted for that purpose. None but large and respectable hotels, it says, will receive those licenses, and, as Hoboken City is not yet a first class city in size, the number of "large hotels" will be limited. Mayor CLICKNER intends to make Hoboken a respectable city. He is reputed to have the energy and good judgment necessary to accomplish that undertaking, in spite of the temptation there will be for his citizens to make money at the expense of character.

The Mayor of Hudson.

Gen. E. E. V. WRIGHT, qualified for the office of Mayor of the new City of Hudson, on Saturday last, at the City Clerk's office in this City. The oath of office was administered by Justice CUTTER.

MARRIED.

In this City, on Tuesday, April 17, by Rev. S. H. Cone, Mr. E. WOODS to CLARISSA E. GRAHAM, all of Greenville.

In Brooklyn, on Tuesday, April 24, at Trinity Church, on Wednesday, April 25, by Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, EBENEZER RICE and ESTHER, youngest daughter of Rufus Ward, all of Brooklyn.

At Plainfield, N. J., on Thursday, April 26, by Rev. S. J. Bonn, HIRAM PHILLIPS, of New-Hampton, Orange Co., N. Y., to MARY ANN, daughter of Joseph Dudleow, Esq., of the former place.

At the residence of the bride's father, Pottsville, Penn., by Rev. Dr. Prime, J. W. HIPE, Chief Engineer, U. S. Navy, to Miss CLARA A. ST. M., daughter of Hon. C. M. Straub.

DIED.

In this City, on Saturday night, April 28, suddenly, CHAS. LOUIS, son of Charles L. and Sarah A. Voss, aged 3 months and 4 days.

The friends and friends of the family, are invited to attend the funeral this day, (Monday,) at 2 o'clock P. M., from No. 202 6th-st., without further invitation.

In this City, on Friday, April 27, at the residence of his son-in-law, Walter Bridge, Esq., No. 177 8th-st., DENNIS VALENTINE, in the 78th year of his age.

The friends of the family of the deceased are respectfully invited to attend his funeral, at the above named residence this day, (Monday,) at 1 o'clock P. M. Interment at Greenwood, on Tuesday, at 10 o'clock A. M. Carriages will be in attendance at the ferry, foot of Barclay-st., on Tuesday morning, at 9 o'clock.

Your remains will be taken to Greenwood Cemetery for interment.

In this City, on Saturday, April 28, JAMES C. NICHOLSON, son of James E. and Mary Nicholson, aged 11 years, 3 months and 6 days.

The friends and acquaintances of the family, and of his father, Capt. James E. Ray, are invited to attend the funeral, from his late residence, No. 37 West 22d-st., this (Monday) afternoon, at 4 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, Bedford, where the funeral services will take place.

In this City, on Sunday, April 29, ELIZA CONDY, Jr., in the 21st year of her age.

The friends of the family are requested to attend the funeral, to-day, (Monday,) at 2 o'clock P. M., from her late residence, No. 61 Ludlow-st.

On Saturday, April 28, of inflammation of the brain, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, (twin son of Thomas and Eliza Monroe,) aged 2 months and 3 days.

In Middletown, April 19, of consumption, after a painful illness, which she bore with saint-like fortitude and resignation, Mrs. SERENA LOUISA GRAVES, wife of E. B. Woodley, Esq., formerly of this City, in the 30th year of her age.

At Green Point, suddenly, on Sunday, April 29, in the 12th year of his age, GEORGE REMSEN, eldest son of H. S. and Louisa A. Remsen.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral, at the residence of his parents, in Meserole-st., this day (Monday) afternoon, at 3 o'clock, without further invitation.

At Rockaway Island, on Saturday, April 28, Dr. Howard H. KINBALL, aged 28 years, Assistant Physician to the Marine Hospital.

COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS.

For Markets see Third Page.

SALES AT THE STOCK EXCHANGE.....APRIL 28.

$1,000 Missouri 6s	90	25	N. Y. Central R. R.	86
1,000 Hud. Riv. R. Mg. 2s	77	50	do	86
1,000 Mi. Ch. R. R. 6s	74	50	do	86
1,000 do	74	100	do	86
1,000 do	74	100	do	86
10,000 do	74	100	do	86
10,000 do	74	100	do	86
2,000 N. Y. Cen. R. R. 6s	95	100	do	86
500 N. Y. Cen. R. 7s	102	100	Harlem Railroad	12
10 Bank State N. Y.	102	75	Hud. River R. R.	49
10 Bank of the Republic	122	50	do	49
5 Hanover Bank	78	200	do	49
10 Continental Bank	101	100	do	49
100 Pennsylvania Coal Co.	150	100	do	49
10 do	150	100	do	49
10 do	150	100	do	49
10 do	150	100	do	49
10 Norwich & Wor. R. R.	125	200	Erie Railroad	26
200 Nic. Transit Co.	34	100	do	26
100 do	34	100	do	26
100 do	34	100	do	26
100 do	34	100	do	26
100 do	34	100	do	26
100 do	34	100	do	26
100 do	34	100	do	26
100 Cum. Coal Co.	150	100	do	26
200 do	6	100	do	26
200 do	6	100	do	26
200 do	6